The Whistle And the Bell

For a year as a Vanderbilt University law student I sat at the feet of Judge Ed Seay, an erudite, somewhat eccentric man whose subjects were wills and real property. He had a stubby forefinger. When he pointed it the effect was somehow the more impressive because of its bluntness.

"Young men," he would say, "the law rarely pounces. It proceeds along well-defined rails, ringing a warning bell and blowing the whistle for each crossing. It is those who ignore the bell and the whistle who are struck by it."

His pointing finger and words came to mind on reading the U.S. Supreme Court decision which reversed the conviction of lunch counter sit-ins in Louisiana. The court dismissed the "breach-of-the-peace" sentences because there was not, of course, any evidence of breaching the peace. A man or woman sitting at a table or counter is not breaching the peace. Since, then, there was no positive breach of the peace, as is required to sustain the charge, the convictions were set aside without any constitutional decision.

But the law was, and is, ringing the warning bell and blowing the whistle. It did this for more than 10 years before the school decision in 1954. Even so, it came as a shock and surprise to many. The Louisiana findings reveal that members of the court are divided as to the broadness of the constitutional rights of sit-ins on privately owned property which, after obtaining such a license, opens its doors to the public.

Massive Changes

We are a people living in the last half of a century crowded with events which are producing changes, some of them massive. Such bread-and-butter reasons as the peace and order of our communities, the prosperity of business and the orderly conduct of public affairs require us to act with common sense.

There are, of course, broader arguments for a realization of what is required of us—the demands of constitutional law, the future of our country, the faith of Americans in one another . . . all these are necessary to our future. If we are unable to decide who may buy what in a store, who may use a public railway or bus station, and who may go to school, then we are doomed to undergo a long period of chaos, grief, and erosion of spirit.

The warning bell and whistle of the processes of constitutional law are found, for example, in the following by Justice Douglas:

"One can close the doors of his home to anyone he desires. But one who operates an enterprise under a license from the government enjoys a privilege that derives from the people. . . ."

Every Citizen

For some time it has been becoming plainer and plainer that every person who is a citizen has equal rights. This is something which some people find impossible to admit. They can cause themselves, their families and their communities nothing but sorrow if they continue to insist that some citizens are protected by all the constitutional provisions and some are not.

What the law seems to be saying to us is that certainly there can be no question of invasion of privacy. A man's home is his home. He will invite to it whom he chooses. He will associate only with whom he selects.

But there is inescapably another question about any enterprise which has a license issued by a local government and the state. It opens its doors to the public. It uses newspaper, radio and TV ads urging the public to purchase its goods.

Can enterprise then say it will let some customers buy any item for sale, but will deny others, because of the prejudice of the owner or operator, the right to purchase at one or two restricted counters? Surely businessmen know this attitude, whatever the law, is not good for business, and lacks the logic of common sense. A public license is for public business.

Whatever the future may produce, we should all admit that we hear the ringing of the warning bell and the blowing of the whistle for the crossings ahead.

Cease-Fire In Katanga Reported

From Press Dispatches

Great Britain reported Monday night the United Nations and the Katangese government were observing a cease-fire in Elisabethville.

This development came after U.N. forces crushed the last Katangese resistance in a fierce running battle through the streets of Elisabethville.

Lord Dundee, joint minister of state for foreign affairs, told the House of Lords in London that Katanga President Moise Tshombe announced the cease-fire before going to Kitwe, Northern Rhodesia, for a peace conference with Premier Cyrille Adoula of the Central Congo Government Tuesday. Lord Dundee did not reveal the source of his information.

"We have had so many disullusionments and disappointments I would not even think of rejoicing too soon. But we must all pray that this meeting of representatives of the different sides may have enough common sense and good will to come to an agreement which may lead at last to peace and prosperity for the Congo," he said.

However, a spokesman at the United Nations said acting Secretary General U Thant had only authorized U.N. forces in Katanga

Rains May Fall Again Tonight

Partly cloudy, not much temperature change and a chance of light showers Tuesday night, and partly cloudy, turning colder Wednesday is what is on tap for Atlanta, says the U.S. Weather Bureau.

Temperatures Tuesday are due to range from 42 to 54, and Wednesday from 42 to 52. Monday's low was 47 and the high 63. A total of 1.09 inches of rain fell at Atlanta Airport between 7:30 p.m. Sunday and 7:30 p.m. Monday.

Their Christmas Card Dog 'Dart' Vanishes—and It's a Sad Yuletide

Dart, the Christmas card dog, is missing, and it will be a sad Yuletide for his owner, Mrs. Martha Hall of 1081 E. Confederate Ave., SE.

Mrs. Hall explained Monday night that for the past three years, since she has owned Dart, she has used his picture on the Christmas cards mailed by her and her husband, Ray Hall, who is with the U.S. Forestry Service.

"Dart has been like a child to us," said Mrs. Hall. "It won't be Christmas for me unless he is returned."

Mrs. Hall described Dart as a toy white poodle, 10 inches high, with a slight cut on the right side of his neck. She also said he has circles under his eyes because "he cries when he is away from us."

Dart got out of the Hall home at 1081 Confederate Ave., SE, last Friday night and was last seen running on Moreland Ave., SE.

"We had 100 cards made up this year," said Mrs. Hall. "But we won't send them out unless Dart comes home."

West Point May Get $51 Million Dam

Constitution Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—District and division engineers of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Monday recommended that a $51 million dam be built on the Chattahoochee River three miles above West Point in Troup County.

The recommendation was contained in a report made following an investigation initiated by the House Public Works Committee.

The engineers said that present plans to develop the Chattahoochee, Flint and Apalachicola rivers should be modified to include construction of the multipurpose dam above West Point. Three dams would "fully develop the potential of this reach of the Chattahoochee River," the report said, but "complete control of floods" is not economically justified.

The other two sites mentioned were at Franklin and Cedar Creek.

The recommended West Point dam would create a reservoir of 23,500 acres and have hydroelectric power facilities of 74,000 kilowatts. Cost of the dam would be $51,200,000. Estimated annual operation and maintenance cost is $261,000.

The recommendation of the district and division engineers was announced through the office of Sen. Herman Talmadge. It went to the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors.

By the usual procedure, the recommendation will be submitted at once by the board to the gov-

Supreme Court Voids State's Tobacco Tag Law

By TED LIPPMAN
Constitution Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—The U.S. Supreme Court Monday ruled Georgia's tobacco-tagging law unconstitutional.

This means that tobacco sold at auction markets in the state cannot be marked with tags that indicate by their colors whether the tobacco was grown in Georgia or the Carolinas.

Justice William Douglas delivered the opinion of the court, which split 6-3. He wrote that the Tobacco Inspection Act authorized the secretary of agriculture to establish standards for tobacco. This act, he said, preempted states from establishing standards of their own. "Under the federal law, there can be but one 'official' standard," Douglas wrote.

Georgia's law called for tobacco to carry a white tag if it was Type 14. According to both federal and state regulations, this type is that grown in Georgia, Florida and Alabama.

However, the court ruled that "Congress . . . left no room for any supplementary state regulation."

"Under the definition of types

Indian Invaders Drive Into Goa's Capital as Soviets Veto Cease-Fire

U.S. Move Defeated in UN Council

From Press Dispatches

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—The Soviet Union early Tuesday night vetoed a U.S. resolution calling upon India to agree to a cease-fire and withdraw its troops from Goa and two other Portuguese enclaves on the Indian coast it invaded Monday.

It was Russia's 99th veto in U.N. History.

The veto was 7 to 4 in favor of the resolution sponsored by the United States, Britain, France and Turkey. Ceylon, Liberia and the United Arab Republic also voted against it, but Russia's negative ballot killed the measure.

A resolution sponsored by Ceylon, Liberia and the United Arab Republic putting the onus for the Goa incident on Portugal and asking the Portuguese to cooperate in the liquidation of colonialism in India earlier was defeated by a vote of 7 to 4. The Soviet Union joined the sponsors in voting for the measure.

On the other side of he repeated 7 to 4 lineup were the United States, Britain, France, China, Turkey, Chile and Ecuador.

Under the Western proposals, India was requested to withdraw her forces to positions they held before the Indian attack Sunday.

The proposal urged India and Portugal "to work out a permanent solution of their differences by peaceful means" in accordance with the principles of the United Nations, and would request Acting Secretary-General U Thant to "provide such assistance as may be appropriate."

The resolution followed the main lines of an opening speech in the Security Council by Adlai E. Stevenson of the United States. The suggestion regarding Thant was made, however, by Britain.

Invasion by India Deplored by U.S.

By E. W. KENWORTHY

WASHINGTON—Secretary of State Dean Rusk told B. K. Nehru, the Indian ambassador, Monday that the United States "deeply regrets" India's use of force to make good her claim to three Portuguese colonies on India's West Coast.

Nehru called on Rusk at 10 a.m. at his own request. Contrary to custom, his visit was not posted on the diplomatic visitors' list in the State department press room, and the ambassador came and went without the usual questions from reporters in the secretary's anteroom.

Later, State Department Press Officer Lincoln White said the ambassador had delivered an "informal memorandum setting forth the Indian position."

ENVOY REPORT

The secretary, White added, "expressed the U.S. view, namely that the U.S. deeply regrets the use of force in this situation."

Monday afternoon the Portuguese ambassador, Pedro Theotonio Pereira, came to see Rusk, also at his own request. Later Pereira told reporters he had reported to Rusk on what he called India's "brutal and premeditated attack" on Goa.

When asked whether he had requested U.S. support for Portugal's censure resolution against India in the United Nations' Security Council, the ambassador said:

"I asked for the normal cooperation of a friend and ally."

PORTUGUESE TRIBUTE

Portugal is a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, but the United States and other members of the alliance have made clear that the treaty's writ does not run to Portugal's overseas possessions.

"I have been observing with gratitude," the ambassador declared, "the friendly reaction of this great country. This country has a great spirit of justice and fairness. I am glad that the spirit of moral condemnation is coming from this country."

The first thing to be done, the ambassador said, is to obtain a cease fire, and the second, to secure a withdrawal of Indian troops. "Then," he said, "we can discuss the rest."

When asked whether Portugal

Surrender In Hours Expected

(Copyright 1961 by the New York Times Co.)

NEW DELHI — Indian troops reached the outskirts of Portuguese Goa's seacoast capital of Pangim Monday night in a military operation that Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru said India had "no choice" but to launch.

Some troops were reported entering Pangim early Tuesday, making the fall of Goa, about 230 miles south of Bombay, possibly only a matter of hours away.

Two smaller Portuguese territories on the Indian subcontinent fell within less than 24 hours after they were attacked. Indian forces were reliably reported in full command of Dama and Diu north of Bombay.

OVERRUN 3RD OF GOA

The operation against Goa, Dama and Diu started shortly after midnight Sunday. By Monday, troops of the Indian 17th infantry division appeared to have overrun considerably more than a third of Goa.

The Defense Ministery said troops were meeting little Portuguese resistance. It said they were being welcomed and helped everywhere by the people of Goa.

Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon named Maj. Gen. K. P. Candeth, the field commander, as military governor of Goa. The prime minister told newsmen that India derived "no pleasure" from taking armed action "but the Portuguese ultimately left no choice open to us."

APPEALS FOR END

He added: "I hope this will be over soon and the people in Goa will settle down to a peaceful and free life."

Indian troops struck Goa from north, east and south. The main thrust from the east reached the outskirts of the key central Goan town of Ponda. Troops from the north entered Mapuca, about 10

Goa a Tiny Stronghold Of Christianity in Asia

BOMBAY, India (AP)—Embattled Goa, the tiny, tropical focal point of world attention and U.N. concern, means many things to many people.

The hilly, river-seamed enclave is a partly decayed remnant outpost of Portuguese empire, a historic toehold of Christianty in Asia, a bone in the throat of Indian anti-colonialists and the home of gentle, dark-skinned men who are famous in Asia and the Middle East as hotel staff personnel, servants and bearers.

To the Portuguese, Goa is "golden Goa," the brightest jewel in the vast necklace of colonies conquered more than four centuries ago when Portugal was a mighty sea power.

Together with the two bits of land — Diu and Damao — to the north of India's West Coast, Goa represents only 1,537 square miles of land, and some 600,000 people.

Goa is no longer rich. From the 16th century, when it boasted opulent cathedrals and palaces, exquisite homes and a dazzling life of wealth for its colonial class, the territory has gone steadily down.

Today many of its people must seek outside employment in for-

Albany, Negroes Seal Peace; Prisoners to Go Free on Bail

By BILL SHIPP

ALBANY—After seven hours of closed-door negotiations, leaders of the anti-segregation Albany Movement agreed Monday to cease all protest demonstrations and to present all grievances of the Negro community through "normal channels."

Vandiver blames "outside agitators." Story on Page 7. Supreme Court refuses to bar Jackson, Miss., from prosecuting freedom riders. Story on Page 10.

In return, Recorder's Court Judge Abner Israel allowed all local Negroes held in jail to sign their own bonds "provided they are employed and have no tax obligations."

The judge said the charges against them could be brought to trial "at the discretion" of Albany Police Chief Lewis Pritchett. Pritchett told reporters he had "no idea" when he might call the trials.

The judge also ruled that the local Negroes could sign recognizance bonds for other "outside" Negroes held on charges of local violations in connection with the demonstrations.

One of the first non-local Negroes to be released on such a bond was Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. of Atlanta, chairman of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

His bond was signed by Dr. W. G. Anderson, a member of the Albany Movement's executive council, who was jailed Saturday.

Less than an hour after the agreement was announced, Albany Mayor Asa Kelley said he received a telephone call from U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy who congratulated him for a good job "under difficult conditions."

Assembly Unlikely to Let City Run Transit, Mackay Warns

The prospect of legislative approval being granted a proposal that would give the City of Atlanta full control over any rapid transit system built here was termed "highly unlikely" Monday night by DeKalb Rep. James A. Mackay.

The Atlanta aldermanic board earlier Monday said it would ask Fulton and DeKalb legislators for action in the 1962 General Assembly empowering Atlanta to set up a five-member rapid transit authority and to contract with neighboring governments to help finance the project.

Fulton Rep. Wilson Brooks said Monday night he feels that "before any positive action" is taken on the aldermen's proposal, "it should receive the full consideration of the five-county steering committee."

(The steering committee—with members from Atlanta and DeKalb, Fulton, Clayton, Cobb and Gwinnett counties—was created after Gov. Vandiver's area-wide rapid transit conference last month and given the task of shepherding the necessary legislation through the upcoming General Assembly).

Rep. Mackay, asked to comment on the aldermanic proposal, said talks among the five-county legislative delegations indicate they could agree on legislation which would provide a "broad constitutional base" for development of rapid transit here.

It appears generally agreed, he said, that this could take the form of a constitutional amendment empowering the General Assembly to delegate to local governments "taxation and condemnation powers for rapid transit and permit contracts to actually achieve this goal. . . ."

But he added that "it seems to me highly unlikely that there could be agreement on the plan reported in the papers to give the City of Atlanta the powers it seeks."

The city proposal was given to

Allies Support Portugal; Reds, Cairo Hail India

LONDON (AP)—Britain sided Monday with its ancient ally Portugal against Commonwealth partner India in the Goa conflict. The Communists applauded and Western powers deplored the Indian attack.

Such neutrals as Indonesia and the United Arab Republic came to the defense of Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, a fellow neutral. But the Western press called the Indian military action a violation of the principles so often preached by Nehru.

SUPPORT IN U.N.

Britain threw its weight behind a Portuguese appeal to the United Nations.

While ruling out any question of British military action against India, Foreign Secretary Lord Home told Parliament his government would honor its string of ancient treaties with Portugal by opposing India in the U.N. Security Council.

It was a touchy decision for Britain to take against India, the largest nation in the Commonwealth. But Portugal is not only one of Britain's oldest allies, it is one of the 12 charter members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

FRENCH REGRETFUL

The French Foreign Ministry expressed "astonishment and regret" and the conservative Paris newspaper Aurore commented: "Mr. Nehru has thrown down his mask, violating the charter of the United Nations. The illustrious pandit is not afraid of splashing his white tunic with blood."

State department officials in Washington made it clear that the United States strongly disapproves India's action.

So did the Netherlands. A Dutch government statesman said it "deplores that, of all countries, it was India, which in the United Nations always campaigned as the champion of the U.N. Charter's principles," that resorted to force.

'NO COMPROMISE'

In Jakarta, an Indonesian foreign office spokesman declared. "We are fully aware that India is compelled to use force in spite of the fact that India is a peace-loving nation. There can be no compromise with colonialism." Indonesia has for years threatened to take Dutch New Guinea.

A spokesman for Pakistan, involved in a prolonged dispute with India over Kashmir, said the Goa invasion was "one more demonstration of the fact that India remains violent and aggressive at heart whatever may be pious statements made from time to time by Indian leaders."

In Ottawa, Canadian Prime Minister John Diefenbacker expressed anxiety and grave disappointment.

PORTUGUESE SENTIMENT

The Brazilian Foreign Ministry issued a statement saying: "The Brazilian people share the sentiments of the Portuguese people in the face of this serious occurrence which flagrantly violates the Charter of the United Nations." Brazil has not always seen eye-to-eye with Portugal, its former master, over the issue of colonialism.

From Moscow came applause for India.

Russia hailed what it described as the drive by India to liberate Goa.

Moscow asserted that the United States had taken a "hypercritical attitude" in deploring the use of force by India against the Portuguese enclaves.

"The attitude toward the struggle of India for the liberation of Goa again clearly shows who is for and who is against colonialism, who are the friends and who are the enemies of the people of Asia and Africa," the Soviet radio declared.

Western observers said Moscow, which has no diplomatic ties with Portugal, apparently was trying to exploit the Goa struggle to stir sentiment in India and the other non-aligned countries against NATO.

U.S. Considering Big Raise for Staff

By RICHARD E. MOONEY

(Copyright 1961 by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON—The administration is considering a sharp increase in salaries for top-level government workers to make the Civil Service more nearly competitive with private industry.

Plans under discussion between officials of the Civil Service Commission, the Budget Bureau and the White House would raise the present $18,500 ceiling to around $25,000—an increase of one-third. Cabinet officers, now paid $22,500, might get $30,000 to $35,000.

Any raises would have to be approved by Congress. At this point, the administration's thinking includes no raise for the legislators, who get the same as the Cabinet plus a $2,500 expense allowance.

The administration's thinking, according to a responsible official, is directed primarily at the problem of attracting people to the upper ranks of government service. Any proposal probably would include a raise for government workers generally, but in the lower and middle ranges it would be relatively small.

The government first started giving serious thought to the problem of matching private salaries two years ago, when the Bureau of Labor Statistics was directed to make an analytical comparison. It found that private industry was paying $20,000 to $30,000 for the same work that the government pays up to $16,300, and $32,500 to $45,000 for work that pays $18,000 in government.

There is no proposal to make government salaries exactly comparable to private. Government officials believe that government service offers other compensation, such as prestige, security and the satisfaction of important work.

The immediate spark to the Kennedy administration's consideration was the problem of attracting and holding the scientific talent needed for rapidly expanding programs of research and development.

Until recently, plans were directed at establishing special $25,000 to $30,000 pay scales for scientists. The planners have decided it would not be justifiable to single out one category of workers. They are thinking now of across-the-board increases.

There have been reports that President John F. Kennedy has given preliminary approval to the idea, even to the point of putting it into effect by steps over a period of three years because it would be so expensive. Estimates of the cost range up to $1 billion.

Minuteman Scores New Success

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Minuteman, the rocket designed for the split second demands of pushbutton war, scored its second straight launching success from an underground silo Monday.

A ball of fire and smoke belched from the 85-foot tube as the missile ignited. Two seconds later the 58-foot projectile darted out of the smoke mass; the second and third stages fired and boosted the nose cone to a target 3,600 miles downrange.

The Air Force announced the success. It reported the major objectives were to "confirm previously gathered design and test data on the silo launching" and to measure temperature, pressures, acoustics, vibration and shock effects on the rocket.

On upcoming tests, the range of Minuteman will be increased steadily toward its intended goal of 6,300 miles.

The missile is scheduled to become operational next summer. Construction is under way at Malmstrom Air Force Base, Mont., on the silos for the first 50-missile squadron. The concrete- and steel-lined holes will withstand all but a direct nuclear hit.

The Defense department plans to have 600 Minutemen on station by 1964.

Brownie darted from a crevice about 20 feet below the spot where he entered the mine Oct. 28.

Shall India Agree that Moral Leadership Has Passed Now to the United States?

India's violent settlement by use of force against Portugal at Goa is a sordid ending to years of preachment about morality.

Colonialism in general and Portugal in particular are unpopular at this stage of history but that gave Prime Minister Nehru no moral ground for kicking her off the subcontinent by force.

From a practical point of view, Nehru couldn't have found a safer way to settle a vexing problem—a swift blow of the sword to a power too small to fight back, and more than four centuries of history was undone at Goa.

But we trust Mr. Nehru will spare us any effort to justify such a settlement as moral.

He has lectured us on everything from Cuba to nuclear tests. But on his own soil he has refused to permit self-determination by plebescite in his dispute with Pakistan over Kashmir. He has submitted to Chinese Communist invasion of his northern frontiers without retaliating. China is strong. Portugal is weak. He struck Portugal.

There will be a little less talk about India's moral leadership now.

Employment of national power is sometimes necessary, as a practical matter, to protect any nation's security if it is threatened.

But Mr. Nehru's use of force went beyond self-security and amounted to conquest of territory. The United States had no such aim in Cuba.

Let's Keep Tax Equalization on Rails

A House tax equalization study committee has recommended that the 1962 Georgia General Assembly be asked to appropriate $1.5 million each year for the next three years for loans to help counties equalize their tax digests.

It is doubtful what the Legislature can do since the appropriations bill for next year already has been passed. It could amend it, of course, but Gov. Vandiver has indicated he will veto any bill that would require raising taxes. This seems to leave it up to the governor himself to finance it through any surplus funds he can find.

The committee certainly is right in its objective. There is no more important program now going on to insure preservation of local government and to promote fiscal health of the state. The administration has gone a long way toward implementing and encouraging it. The response has been surprising.

However it is financed, this program should be continued and even expanded. Most counties would realize enough added revenue without raising taxes to repay their loans to the state in less time than the five years permitted for repayment.

Sales Tax Brackets Should Stay the Same

Merchants and consumers have learned to live with the sales tax brackets installed by Revenue Commissioner Dixon Oxford and they ought not to be monkeyed with except for writing them into law.

Lt. Gov. Byrd, Bibb Rep. Taylor Phillips and some others want the brackets changed. Their approach would cost the state money it cannot afford to lose.

Under the old system the mathematics were such that merchants did not have to turn in the entire take from sales taxes. It amounted to a windfall for them at the expense of consumers and the state government.

Heading back in that direction would not be in the best interests of the state nor should it set well with the public.

JFK's Latin Welcome Is Hopeful Beginning

The enthusiastic welcome given President Kennedy in Venezuela and Colombia shows again there is a reservoir of good will toward the United States in Latin America in spite of the resentment toward some of our past policies.

The people were ready to hear about the Alliance for Progress, the most significant new development in U.S. policy since President Franklin D. Roosevelt initiated the "good neighbor" role.

Mr. Kennedy talked plainly and tellingly to the ruling classes in both Caracas and Bogota. The Alliance for Progress is a self-help program which the United States will support to the fullest. Its success depends upon reforms which must be initiated and supported through the wealthy classes who thus far have refused to take the steps that are inevitable.

In visiting Caracas and Bogota, the President chose two of Latin America's most serious trouble spots. The expected demonstrations did not develop against him but hundreds of thousands turned out to cheer. His message, "Reform yourselves or face violent revolution and destruction," was heard.

It is late, but not too late, for other Latin American nations to escape the fate of Castro's Cuba. If they are willing, it can be done with our help.

Will State Legislature Knuckle Under Again?

The local governments of Atlanta, Brooks County, Fitzgerald and Laurens County are among the few that have recognized the danger of fireworks and outlawed their sales.

In so doing they have shown more concern for the safety of youths than they have toward pleasing the fireworks lobby.

Why won't the legislature show the same degree of gumption and ban the devices throughout the state? Or does the General Assembly find the firecracker boys so irresistible that it will go right on tolerating sales in the many communities where fireworks are sold?

Gripers Show Need for Better Training

It would be a mistake to jump to hasty conclusions and to lose faith in the nation's armed force reserves as a result of the few instances of bad morale that have been reported. In the first place, there has never been a mobilization of citizen-soldiers that was not accompanied by gripes. This is no reason now to indict what has been and will continue to be a very necessary part in this country's defenses—ready reserve forces that can be utilized quickly to build up the regular establishment.

The Army, which had to mobilize more men faster, has had the brunt of the problem. The Navy and the Air Force, which has smaller reserve forces, has had fewer complaints. Air National Guard units sent overseas demonstrated a high state of morale and readiness.

Expenditures for the National Guard and Reserves in the current budget amount to about $1,300,000,000, of which $771 million goes to the Army Reserve. The callup has served the Army in that it has learned a lot about the reserve setup itself. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, after a study for President Kennedy, reported that morale on the whole of both National Guard and reservists was "magnificent."

Writing in the New York Times, Hanson W. Baldwin, military analyst and authority on the armed forces, says that most of the malcontents were either reserve "fillers," drawn from so-called control groups or members of specialized nontactical units. Six-month recruits who had no roots in their Guard units were prominent among the gripers.

The Army called up about 40,000 from the reserve pool of 730,000 to fill out mobilized National Guard and reserve units. Included in the 40,000 were some 12,000 who had served only for six months. The 40,000 "fillers," Mr. Baldwin points out, included some 12,000 who had served only for six months and had little additional training. The majority of the complaints came from a minority of these "fillers."

The mobilization caught the Army, says Mr. Baldwin, in transition to a system of machine record-keeping. This resulted in confusion in which dead and incapacitated reservists were called to duty and men were mobilized who because of hardship or dependency should never have been called.

What seems to be needed is a streamlining of administration to correct the obvious deficiencies in training readiness and attitudes. Mr. Baldwin suggests that the six-month training program be eliminated and that all men be required to serve a full two years in the regular forces—except those who volunteer for longer periods. He also suggests that draft deferments for married men and for fathers up to age 25 be ended and a reduction in over-all troop strength and numbers of units in the National Guard and Army reserve be accomplished while beefing up the strength and equipment of individual units.

Beefing up the Army's regular strength while improving the training and equipment of needed reserves to a state of maximum readiness would seem to be the solution.—GEORGE BOSWELL.

An Atlantan Looks At New Europe

An Atlanta businessman has just returned from Europe, shaken in some of his old notions and convinced of some new truths. He is a clear-eyed conservative who has had his doubts about foreign aid, free trade, President Kennedy and the rest.

But he found the Common Market has recast America's kinship with her old European relatives. Prosperity has bred a new independence of, and some disinterest in, their Uncle Sam.

"I've about decided what they respect is American military power and the American dollar," he said. His conception of them as old-school friends and allies was rearranged.

As for leaning on us for financial support now, they don't. Neither are they preoccupied with the Communist threat. "There's actually more fear-talk about Germany," he said.

They would like to assume the United States will handle the Soviet military threat while they stick more strictly to business. And business is booming.

He saw fewer than 800 unemployed in the whole nation of Switzerland. He found Europe's spring of labor, Italy, drying up because of Italian prosperity, and discovered Germany is now importing Japanese to mine coal.

"The Common Market is all they talk about," he said. "Even European wives can tell you all about it. It's bringing good times. We'd better start talking about it in Georgia too."

After seeing the boom in Europe—the sudden self-sufficiency of nations that were almost our dependents a little over a decade ago—the Atlantan came home convinced that America must follow President Kennedy's lead toward free trade, even though tariff revision will hurt some U.S. industries in the short run.

"When you look at the big picture, you see the absolute necessity for us to compete with Europe," he said. He had seen American capital already investing in Europe, robbing Americans of jobs.

"And it's crucial that we hold down the wage-price spiral," he said. If American industry accepts the painful therapy of tariff revision in order to keep America competitive, so must labor hold wage demands in line with productivity. The President's call for sacrifice becomes clearer to Americans.

The Atlanta businessman had high praise for the President's courage in laying his tariff policy on the line before the NAM, and the wage truth on the line to the AFL-CIO the following day.

What the businessman saw is not unexpected. America's hope in financing the Marshall Plan and encouraging the Common Market was that Western Europe would reach just this stage. Economically, it is inconvenient. But Americans can compete. Politically, we have created a revived Europe. And prosperous peoples do not turn to communism. We assume that historic fact will apply to Europe, as we turn now to a future for ourselves.

And to a greater extent it is a go-it-alone future—a policy of our own in Africa, independent of Europe; a tightening of ties in this hemisphere, and in matters of the NATO alliance, a more strictly business approach with fairer sharing of the military and foreign-aid burden. The going will get harder now for the United States.

Cry-Babies Bring Ugly Consequences

WASHINGTON—The cry-babyism of some few among the 150,000 reserve officers and soldiers called up for active duty in the Berlin crisis has now had ugly consequences. The Department of Defense has been compelled to announce that it can no longer depend upon these men for limited service of this kind. Indeed, it is sadly concluded that they can hardly be relied upon for anything short of total war.

Gen. James Van Fleet is a tough old commander. But, like nearly all great troop leaders, he is also a commander with both respect and compassion for all men in uniform. He has found in an inspection trip to six training camps that morale among the great majority is "magnificent."

All the same, something is very wrong and it must be that well-known case of what a few bad apples will do to the whole barrel. And the gentle way in which that something has been described by Roswell L. Gilpatric, the deputy secretary of defense, must only add to a sense of alarm as to what has happened to this military generation.

"I don't think," he says, "that our reservists have oriented themselves to the thought that they are called up to prevent a fight, rather than to fight."

What this means — and it was not an easy thing for such a man as Gilpatric to say, in all his devotion to preparing this country's strength — is not pretty. However you parse it, however you define it or soften it, the central point comes through that the highest military authorities of this country have found that the reserve is not of a mind to do its duty unless the reserve itself can decide what that duty is to be.

This is a dreadful indictment; it is a shocking indictment, however quietly it is put. For what, really, were the famous hardships suffered by these men in the call-up? One was an absence of clothes hangers; another was the inevitable, the historical complaint of all soldiers at all times in history at the quality of the food. And so on.

Other gripes, of course, were not so childish as this.

For these men did not enter the reserve to be paid only for occasionally drilling; or, for that matter, to be even moderately comfortable. These officers have not retained their commissions simply to be eligible in time for fairly fat Army pensions. And, most galling of all, the great bulk of these men have never known a single hour of combat.

It is no mere cliche to say that the Army not only builds men but expects men to be men. Isn't cold-war duty little enough for our present young men to bear when so many before them have borne a variety of war duty that was hot, indeed?

Kennedy's Trip Not an Apology

PARIS—Many Latin Americans like to fancy President Kennedy's quick trip to Caracas and Bogota as a way of apologizing to our southern neighbors for past omissions. They incline to see us as a rich relative who neglected his duty toward poor cousins and now just admit as much to secure their continued good will.

This is an error. U. S. policy in Latin America has been neither consistent, profound nor adroit over the past years. But the fact that most nations south of the Rio Grande are in unhappy shape is far from being solely our fault. Most of them have tended to avoid the obligations imposed upon them by modern social conditions. Countries with sizeable populations and vast potential wealth have used these advantages insufficiently.

I have just completed an extensive tour of Latin America which, if nothing else, made me aware of my own ignorance and, incidentally, awakened a feeling of deception in our means of facing issues. I intend to present certain analyses and conclusions concerning that area in subsequent pieces. Some of these may be summarized accordingly:

1. The idea of regional groupings or a bloc approach to economic aid, while attractive sounding and applicable to Western Europe, is premature in Latin America. Differences are too startling to be wrapped together in one bundle.

2. The United States is beginning to convince its neighbors of the sincerity and generosity of its interest in them. But it is not yet convincing them of the strength of its convictions.

3. Until now we made inadequate use of our European Allies. Some of our partners feel the moribund Monroe Doctrine intrudes whenever common interests in the hemisphere arise—despite the fact we would like them to join in putting the southern continent on its feet.

4. Although the Kennedy administration has begun to improve the quality of our Latin American diplomats, the task is incomplete. Furthermore, although the President has unscrambled some of the Washington confusion on who runs our program, that also is an unfinished job. Conflict continues between State department, CIA and various lending institutions, and our shrewder neighbors play one off against the other.

5. Because we emphasize our generosity over our strength, some of the nations we would aid are so convinced we are pressing help that they would pleasantly like to blackmail us.

Georgian Asks That Negro Leadership Now Concentrate on Constructive Goals

Lawrenceville — I lent you my ear, now you lend me yours. Sometime recently you said in your column a new leadership of the Negro is taking over to consolidate the gains made by the Negroes in recent years.

The only breakthrough that was ever legitimately done was by an orderly process of law. All sit-ins, stand-ins, look-ins have been totally both immoral and illegal.

The Negroes have sought to gain a social recognition by propaganda.

Few actually cared for equal education, equal food facilities, equal treatment. What they wanted, especially the college students, was equal social recognition—no more or less—in their hearts.

Now I do hope this new leadership will turn its attention to things which will really benefit the Negro — better education, segregated or unsegregated, better job opportunities, better housing, segregated or unsegregated, better health facilities, segregated or unsegregated.

This parade and trespass and push and intrusion we have had is sickening.

If this new leadership has got any sense at all it will say, look, our constitutional rights are all we demand. Since we are a minority, will the majority help us to advance as citizens, help us to raise the general standard both morally and economically for our people? We know we are an ethnic group, let us remain so, but help us to advance within our sphere, define our sphere, let us work together yet apart. Let us recognize each other as complements to each other, both free in freedom, neither intruding into the intimacies of the other. Let us share and share alike the physical benefits of our government, let us live as a people together yet apart. Let us pursue life, liberty, happiness at nobody else's expense or discomfiture. This is all we are entitled to, this is all we seek.

Recrimination for our past history and plight, unjust though it has been in many ways, we do not seek. Let the dead past bury its dead, to stand in judgment before their God. Today we begin anew, joining hands, throwing down our gimmicks. Let us cooperate to solve the problems which now lie before us.

God helping us both we shall. This is our own, our native land; we will uphold and defend it with all our might and main.

We will build and never tear down, we will be patient, we will evolve but will not revolt, and in so doing shall demonstrate to the world, this is indeed a land of the free and the home of the brave.

Will this new leadership say this? Or will it try to "occupy" the vanquished?

Says Bill: "A local minister—we won't say which one because some of his members might think he's describing them—has handed us the following 'letter' ":

I hope lots of lemonade, donuts, cookys and hotdogs. We ain't gonna pay muny into a church which don't feed well.

Public Is Entitled To Know Author

"The Fascist Revival . . . the inside story of the John Birch Society." So blazens a 47-page pamphet with a front cover in flaming red. The price of the pamphlet is 35 cents. The author uses the byline of Mike Newberry. The publishers are the New Century Publishers, 832 Broadway, New York 3, N.Y.

In recent weeks, President Kennedy has led the attack on an anonymous group he describes as the "extremist right-wing," and many columnists and editorial writers have interpreted the President's remarks to be a condemnation of the John Birchers.

I do not propose to become embroiled in any dispute over the merits or demerits of the Birch Society or its members. But the violence of the language in this little pamphlet aroused my interest. The author has literally quoted me completely out of context, and in many places completely misquoted me, in what appears to be a deliberate attempt to categorize all conservatives as Fascists.

I assume that some of you who read this column have seen this pamphlet.

But it occurs to me the American public is entitled to know the identity of the publisher and the author. In the Guide to Subversive Organizations and Publications, House Document No. 226, on page 67, there appears the following information:

New Century Publishers.

1. "An official Communist publishing house which has published the works of William Z. Foster and Eugene Dennis, Communist Party chairman and executive secretary, respectively, as well as the theoretical magazine of the party known as Political Affairs and the Constitution of the Communist Party, U.S.A."

In the report of a Hearing before the Subcommittee to Investigate the Administration of the Internal Security Act and Other Internal Security Laws of the Committee on the Judiciary, United States Senate, 87th Congress, First Session, published July 11, 1961, identified as "printed for the use of the Committee on the Judiciary," page 75, appendix 17 carries this statement:

"Never, since the most virulent days of Goebbels' 'hate' propaganda, has anything appeared in the United States comparable to a 47-page booklet, dated June, 1961, put out by the Communist Party of the United States in connection with its drive to smother the expanding anti-Communist movement in this country.

"The 35-cent booklet is entitled 'The Fascist Revival,' and purports to tell 'the inside story of the John Birch Society.' The author is Mike Newberry, another Worker specialist in unbridled smear."

I'm not in sympathy with any group which suggests the use of force and violence or devious methods to overthrow or alter the American system of government.

Surely There's Room for Parks And Cars, Too, in Central City

Peering out the window of one of those new rooftop restaurants which have recently sprung up downtown, a man feels a great pride in his city. All around, the clean lines of the tall new buildings rise—"noble with plane and mass and the squareness of stone," as Benet wrote of the skyscrapers of New York. They bear witness to the strength of our city, its vitality, its wealth, and its faith in the future.

Somehow, though, this sense of pride begins to fade a little with a longer look. For in all this upspringing mass there is little of beauty except the buildings themselves and some of them impress more by their size than by their grace. Beautiful, or merely massive, they rise like soaring monuments out of a compost of ugliness.

People don't live in restaurants on the tops of tall buildings, nor spend their days peering down from great heights. They live and work and move about down in the streets. And down there, amid all the cold shine of marble and glass and polished stone, there is hardly a spot for living color. There are only a handful of little plots, such as Hurt and Plaza Park, where grass and flowers grow, and fountains play.

There should be many more of these little quiet places, pores through which the cement and asphalt skin of the city can breathe, small glades amid the stone and concrete forest into which the winds can wander and the spring sun shine.

The reason there are not more parks, of course, is due to the automobile. Every flat and open space on which no building stands must be used for the cars. Even they have a certain beauty from high in the air, for the varied colors of the hardtops blend into a blur of color like a bed of flowers. At street level, though, there is no beauty in them.

Actually, there is still room in the city for cars and parks alike. Seen from above, there is many a little cul-de-sac between tall buildings, occupied now by some ancient structure of bygone years which easily could be spared for a fountain site where grass and flower boxes could be planted, and people from the offices could come for a brief "beauty break" more restful, maybe, than the coffee break. And there are many little triangular places where oblique streets come together, too small for a building site or a parking lot, that could be made into green and open places.

Maybe the city could set up a fund to buy up these little fragments of real estate, and develop them into parks. Atlanta is famous for the beauty of its residential lawns and flower gardens. And it seems a shame somehow that the heart of the city should be so barren of all beauty.

Auto Title Funds Face Veto

Gov. Ernest Vandiver declared Monday he would veto any Legislative change in the state appropriations act—including one to finance the new auto title registration law.

"I think if you made an attempt to amend this appropriations act, it would open a wide vista of possible amendments and would take this state over the precipice to financial ruin," Vandiver asserted in his weekly news conference.

He also declared that he would not eliminate urban transit systems from the sales tax, as some operators have suggested.

"That has been hashed and rehashed" but it won't be done during his administration, Vandiver said.

Vandiver was asked about a legislative committee's declaration that it would seek to amend the appropriations act to provide $280,000 to begin financing the title law.

"I would say that those who attempt that should bring along the tax bills to show how it would be financed," the governor responded.

A reporter asked if he were not on record as being ready to veto any tax increases, and he acknowledged that he was.

In a wide-ranging press conference, Vandiver also:

1. Said he would "be glad to see the recommendations" of an Election Laws Study Committee which has called for setting the Democratic primary at the traditional mid-September date.

2. Invited Georgians to drive along The Prado to see some 12,000 Christmas lights on the Mansion lawn.

3. Said the Vandiver family will spend Christmas in the mansion rather than the family home in Lavonia.

2 B25s Drop Anti-Castro Leaflets on Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI)—Two twin-engine B25 aircraft dropped anti-Castro pamphlets in the Cienfuegos region of Central Cuba over the weekend, informed exile sources said Monday.

The pamphlet said, denominated "Operation Fantasma," was carried out in the southern region of Las Villas Province adjoining the Sierra de Escambray.

The Sierra has been an anti-Castro stronghold almost since the triumph of the Cuban revolution. More than 250,000 "call to arms" pamphlets against Castro were dropped.

It was the second such "phantom raid" in the past three months. Two planes leaflet-raided the city of Camaguey, also in central Cuba, last Oct. 21.

True Spirit of Christmas Glows As People Help One Another

Will you miss Christmas this year? A host of people will. In my last column I wrote about the rushing crowd who become impatient and thoughtless in their mad rush to prepare for Christmas. This represents the plight of a host of people. On the other hand, the true meaning of Christmas will be felt in the hearts of millions of people. Some may lose sight of the deeper meaning of this season, but others will be able to see the spirit of this season through the decorations, parties and expensive gifts.

There seems to be a spirit in Christmas that is not found in any other season of the year. It is a time when many turn their thoughts to others. We want to be helpful. Kindness comes a little easier. We look for someone who feels the world has forgotten and we bring happiness back to their life. For many, it is easier to smile at Christmas.

I visited a patient in the hospital recently who, by the nature of his illness, is under the sentence of an early death. He, more than most of us, will be able to separate the superficial from the true meaning of Christmas. Christmas sets the bells of joy ringing in his heart. He knows that he will not be required to walk through the valley of the shadow of death alone. Christmas floods his life with hope. It speaks of the love of God. It assures him that life is eternal. He keeps in mind that without Christmas there would not have been a Calvary or an Easter.

Many have found the words of W. C. Jones to jump with life. "The joy of brightening other lives, bearing others' burdens . . . and supplanting empty hearts and lives with generous gifts becomes for us the magic of Christmas."

I watched a tired policeman bring the rushing traffic to a halt and help an old lady across the street with her many bundles. I saw a nice young man stand aside and let a mother with three children bubbling over with energy go ahead of him to the register. On the busy sidewalk I looked at an exhausted Santa Claus stop and bend over a little girl who wanted to tell him what she wanted for Christmas.

I met a kind doctor who was headed to the hospital to see if he could save a mother's baby that weighed only one and a half pounds. I watched the kind and gentle hands of a nurse bring some drugs into the room of a patient and gently hold his head as he took the medicine. Somehow, she was able to bring some cheer into the room. She left with a smile on her face and said, "I hope that will make you feel better."

Yes, Christmas will be felt by many. You can be one who feels it and expresses it.

Chairman Miller Has Party That Doesn't Care for Politics

WASHINGTON—The problem that William E. Miller has discovered in his first six months as chairman of the Republican National Committee can be simply stated. He is running a party that doesn't really like politics very much. Eighty per cent of the people who stayed home on election day last year, his researchers told him, were Republicans. Of the 50,000 polling places between Maryland and Maine, only 5,000, or 10 per cent, were manned by loyal workers passing out GOP literature.

With candidates, it's the same story. There are at least a dozen Republicans who would, if you asked them very nicely, consent to be candidates for president next time. But will they run for governor or for Congress? The suddenly political former President Eisenhower and Miller spend a good deal of their time asking them in vain.

"What we need," says Miller starkly, "is warm bodies."

The lean, sharp dapper congressman from New York, who looks a little like the late Jimmy Walker, is just back from a tour of his political domain. It took him to 33 states and four regional meetings with Republican leaders of 50 states.

(Celestine Sibley is on vacation.)

He told them that what the Republican Party needs is not "a new image," but "more muscle." He told them to start in the precincts and work up.

"We get murdered in the big cities," he said in an interview in his elegant office at Republican national headquarters. "Why should we lose the Polish vote? It wasn't our party that sold Poland down the river at Teheran."

Everywhere he went, he heard voices. In the South, they said, "Give us Goldwater and we'll go somewhere." In the North, they said, "You take Goldwater and we're dead." Others kenned that Dwight D. Eisenhower is the only great Republican. Still others insisted that Nixon is the man.

Miller cut through all this talk with an acid reminder that they would have to go looking under a rock for a Republican candidate for the presidency in 1964 if they didn't win the 1962 elections. He thinks the Republicans have a real chance to take the House.

"There is no sense in being a Goldwater or a Nixon or a Rockefeller Republican at this stage of the game," he says. "What we need are local candidates."

He is hoping that the upcoming elections will produce a number of new faces.

"I envy the Democrats their Harrimans, their Roosevelts, their Kennedys. They all had a lifetime of public service behind them. Look at Lehmann. He ran for lieutenant governor of New York. It paid $6,500 a year. Then he went on to be governor and senator. Can I get anyone to run for lieutenant governor?"

When Congress reconvenes, Miller will have fresh problems and a whole set of new voices to contend with. There will be, for one thing, the "Ev and Charlie" show, the weekly televised press conference of Senate Minority Leader Dirksen and House Minority Leader Halleck, which many bemused viewers are convinced is the official line of the Republican National Committee, although it is not.

There will also be, an increased clamor from the conservatives. The invitations that pour into his office are a clear index that many Republicans are looking backwards. The GOP organizations press for the following speakers in the following order: Eisenhower, Nixon, Goldwater, Sen. Tower of Texas, and Rep. Judd of Minnesota.

NOVEMBER AUTO SALES SET RECORD

Good News from Dodge!
Prices on all DODGE DART models are lower than last year

More new cars were sold this November than in any other November in automotive history. Industry sales are booming.

Before you buy any new car, check your Dodge Dealer. Check the new size Dodge Dart, actually priced up to $71 less than last year's comparable model.

COMPARE DART'S NEW LOW PRICE

The comparisons, at right, are based on manufacturers' suggested retail price of six cylinder 2-door sedans. Only white-wall tires, wheel covers, other optional equipment, state and local taxes (if any) and destination charge extra.

FORD FAIRLANE	$2079
MERCURY METEOR	$2203
THE NEW SIZE DODGE DART	$2241
CHEVY BISCAYNE	$2324 Price includes heater
FORD GALAXIE	$2378

The 1962 Dart is a totally new kind of Dodge automobile. Two feet shorter than America's largest car. Two feet longer than the smallest. Dart is sized right in the middle of the big and little.

You get maneuverability without sacrifice of comfort or room. You get both gasoline economy and outstanding performance.

The Dart standard six cylinder engine is the most powerful in the business. Its standard V8 develops more horsepower and torque than anything near its price.

Dart is comfortable. (Chair-high seats.) It is extremely easy to handle and park. (A new low-friction steering gear.) And like every Dodge before it, completely dependable. The body is rustproofed. The brakes adjust themselves. You go 32,000 miles between grease jobs.

The 1962 Dodge Dart is now, without question, the best buy on the market. See it. Drive it today.

'There is No Darkness at All'

Fundamentals of Faith. Thirty-eighth of 50 readings. The First Epistle of John, Chapter 1, verse 1, to Chapter 2, verse 25.

A Reading from the New Testament of The New English Bible

It was there from the beginning; we have heard it; we have seen it with our own eyes; we looked upon it, and felt it with our own hands; and it is of this we tell. Our theme is the word of life. This life was made visible: we have seen it and bear our testimony; we here declare to you the eternal life which dwelt with the Father and was made visible to us. What we have seen and heard we declare to you, so that you and we together may share in a common life, that life which we share with the Father and his Son Jesus Christ. And we write this in order that the joy of us all may be complete.

Here is the message we heard from him and pass on to you: that God is light, and in him there is no darkness at all. If we claim to be sharing in his life while we walk in the dark, our words and our lives are a lie; but if we walk in the light as he himself is in the light, then we share together a common life, and we are being cleansed from every sin by the blood of Jesus his Son.

If we claim to be sinless, we are self-deceived and strangers to the truth. If we confess our sins, he is just, and may be trusted to forgive our sins and cleanse us from every kind of wrong; but if we say we have committed no sin, we make him out to be a liar, and then his word has no place in us.

TO PLEAD FOR US

My children, in writing thus to you my purpose is that you should not commit sin. But should anyone commit a sin, we have one to plead our cause with the Father, Jesus Christ, and he is just. He is himself the remedy for the defilement of our sins, not our sins only but the sins of all the world.

Here is the test by which we can make sure that we know him: do we keep his commands? The man who says, 'I know him,' while he disobeys his commands, is a liar and a stranger to the truth; but in the man who is obedient to his word, the divine love has indeed come to its perfection.

Here is the test by which we can make sure that we are in him: whoever claims to be dwelling in him, binds himself to live as Christ himself lived. Dear friends, I give you no new command. It is the old command which you always had before you; the old command is the message which you heard at the beginning. And yet again it is a new command that I am giving you — new in the sense that the darkness is passing and the real light already shines. Christ has made this true, and it is true in your own experience.

BLIND IN THE DARK

A man may say, 'I am in the light'; but if he hates his brother, he is still in the dark. Only the man who loves his brother dwells in light: there is nothing to make him stumble. But one who hates his brother is in darkness; he walks in the dark and has no idea where he is going, because the darkness has made him blind.

I write to you, my children, because your sins have been forgiven for his sake.

I write to you, fathers, because you know him who is and has been from the beginning.

I write to you, young men, because you have mastered the evil one.

To you, children, I have written because you know the Father.

To you, fathers, I have written because you know him who is and has been from the beginning.

To you, young men, I have written because you are strong; God's word is in you, and you have mastered the evil one.

Do not set your hearts on the godless world or anything in it. Anyone who loves the world is a stranger to the Father's love. Everything the world affords, all that panders to the appetities, or entices the eyes, all the glamour of its life, springs not from the Father but from the godless world. And that world is passing away with all its allurements, but he who does God's will stands for evermore.

THE LAST HOUR

My children, this is the last hour! You were told that Antichrist was to come, and now many antichrists have appeared; which proves to us that this is indeed the last hour. They went out from our company, but never really belonged to us; if they had, they would have stayed with us. They went out, so that it might be clear that not all in our company truly belong to it.

You, no less than they, are among the initiated; this is the gift of the Holy One, and by it you all have knowledge. It is not because you are ignorant of the truth that I have written to you, but because you know it, and because lies, one and all, are alien to the truth.

Who is the liar? Who but he that denies that Jesus is the Christ? He is Antichrist, for he denies both the Father and the Son: to deny the Son is to be without the Father; to acknowledge the Son is to have the Father too. You therefore must keep in your hearts that which you heard at the beginning; if what you heard then still dwells in you, you will yourselves dwell in the Son and also in the Father. And this is the promise that he himself gave us, the promise of eternal life.

Waggonner Favored in Louisiana

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Democrat Joe Waggonner remained the favorite over Republican Charlton H. Lyons Sr. as northwest Louisiana's 4th District prepared to elect a successor Tuesday to the late Rep. Overton Brooks.

Some 95,221 persons—97 per cent Democrats—were eligible to vote in an election that saw one of the strongest Republican campaigns in Louisiana in years. A 50 per cent turnout was forecast, with cloudy skies and mild temperature.

BOTH SEGREGATIONISTS

Polling places in the seven-parish district were scheduled to be open from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Already, 899 persons — above average for an off-year election have cast ballots in absentee voting that ended last week.

The 4th District has not elected a Republican since 1873 and, more often than not, Democrats have run unopposed. In 1960, Brooks, who died Sept. 16, won his 12th term by defeating Republican Fred McClanahan 48,286 to 16,827.

The Waggonner-Lyons winner will serve until January 1963.

Both Waggonner, 43, a member of the State Board of Education; and Lyons, 67, a Shreveport oil man making his first attempt for elective office, are segregationists and extreme conservatives.

BOLTED IN 1960

Waggonner, in fact, bolted the Democratic party in 1960 and ran as a States Rights Party unpledged elector. A year earlier he was defeated for state comptroller on a ticket headed by State Sen. Willie Rainach, then chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Segregation.

Lyons, who was a teacher, school principal and lawyer before going into the oil business in the late 1930s, became a Republican last year after 45 years as a registered Democrat.

Although registration heavily favors Waggonner, Lyons has had the editorial endorsement of the Shreveport Times, the district's only morning daily; and two smaller papers. The Shreveport Journal, an afternoon daily, did not endorse either candidate, although it ran several pro-Waggonner editorials.

In the 1960 presidential election, the district gave more than 40 per cent of its vote to the Republican ticket. The States Rights party came in second, and the Democratic ticket, which captured Louisiana with just over 50 per cent of the statewide vote, was last.

Campaigning has centered around claims by each candidate that he can better represent the district's conservative and segregation viewpoint.

Menzies Win House Majority In Australia

CANBERRA, Australia (UPI). Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies' coalition government won a bare majority in the House of Representatives Monday in a last-minute victory that assured its continuance in office.

The government Liberal Country Party coalition squeezed through to a two-seat majority when liberal member Jim Killen was declared the winner of the seat from Moreton. The government earlier had conceded the seat as lost to the opposition laborites.

The result gave the government 62 House seats to 60 for the Australian Labor Party. The majority will be reduced to one vote after the House names a speaker from government ranks.

"I am delighted with the result," said Menzies, who will be entering his 13th straight year as prime minister.

6 Outside Agitators Stirred Albany Row, Vandiver Says

Six "ouside agitators" who have been connected with groups "designated as subversive" caused the racial disturbance in Albany, Gov. Ernest Vandiver charged Monday.

Hundreds of Negroes have been arrested for demonstrations following the arrest of a number of "freedom riders."

Vandiver said he had called Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy last week "to use his influence to get the agitators out," emphasizing that "local people can solve" their problems in Albany.

He said Kennedy called him back Thursday night "to report that action had been taken" to get the "agitators" out of town, but that it was found they were still there.

The governor said Albany's Mayor Asa Kelley had given Kennedy a biography of the six men.

Vandiver said it was learned the six "were sent into Albany several weeks ago to stir up trouble . . . "They have been connected with organizations that have been designated as subversive.

"There wouldn't be in any trouble if they weren't there."

Vandiver said it was his opinion that "the demonstrations had been planned for months."

The governor commended Kelley and Albany Police Chief Laurie Pritchett for "a tremendous job" in handling a potentially explosive situation.

High praise of Albany officials also came from Lt. Gov. Garland Byrd Monday.

He cited "the outstanding manner in which you have handled your racial troubles" and declared that it was "a magnificent victory for the cause of decency in Georgia."

Byrd also said in a telegram to Mayor Kelley:

"Albany has proven my theory that lawful resistance to these unwarranted encroachments by the NAACP can be successful when properly handled."

City Hall Charted in Directory

Atlantans having business with the city probably will save time after Jan. 1 if they consult the City Hall Directory. Many divisions will have new quarters in a shift of space.

Three floors of City Hall, now occupied by the schools department, will be available for other departments. School divisions are moving to the old Health Building adjacent to City Hall.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE

A special committee headed by City Comptroller Earl Landers recommended reapportionment of space.

The Urban Renewal Department will vacate quarters on the second floor and take over the 13th floor; traffic engineering, now on the third floor, will move to the 10th floor and the construction department will occupy space the traffic division now is using.

City Land Agent Harry Andrews and his staff will move from the fourth floor to the 10th floor and space now occupied by the land division will be taken over by the purchasing division.

PARKS UNIT MOVES

The parks department will move from the sixth floor to the ninth floor and the engineering division of the parks department also will be shifted to the ninth floor.

Landers' division will occupy the entire sixth floor and thus allow the transfer of the credit union and insurance divisions from the seventh to the sixth floor.

The planning division will get space vacated by the pension division.

Portrait Of Judge Is Unveiled

A portrait of Judge Emeritus William Reynolds has been unveiled in the Clayton County courthouse at Jonesboro.

Judge Harold Banke, who presided at the unveiling, called the courtroom where the picture was hung "the battlefield where Judge Reynolds has spent the great majority of his rewarding years."

About 100 of Judge Reynolds friends were in the courtroom to watch his wife unveil the portrait painted by Bill Derikson, Forest Park artist.

At the ceremony in his honor, Judge Reynolds said he appreciated the "big lies" about his career and wished "just about half of them had been true."

"I'm touched by the expression of deep gratitude bestowed on me," the judge said.

Clayton County Commission Chairman P. K. Dixon accepted the picture on behalf of the county.

200 Negroes Jailed In Louisiana March

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—Police arrested more than 200 Negroes late Monday as they marched on Canal Street in a sympathy demonstration.

The Negroes, mostly students, were hauled away in at least 10 patrol wagons. They were orderly and offered no resistance.

Police Superintendent Joseph I. Giarrusso said he ordered the arrests because the Negroes were violating a city ordinance by parading without a permit.

They were protesting the use of tear gas in Baton Rouge last Friday to quell a demonstration led by officials of the Congress of Racial Equality.

The Friday demonstration came one day after 23 Negroes were arrested for picketing Baton Rouge merchants in an effort to obtain equality of employment. In all, 73 Negroes were arrested during the two days.

'It's a Bargain'

ARLINGTON, Va.—Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman talks to Mrs. Maurice Bresnahan in chain food store here Monday where he campaigned personally to convince housewives that food is a good bargain. He said an hour's wage will buy much more food now than it would 10 years ago. Denying it was a stunt, he said he was trying to focus attention on efforts to work out a suitable farm program to give the farmer a more equitable income. (Associated Press Wirephoto)

Do-It-Itself Plane Is Down But Hiding Out

CHICO, Calif. (UPI) — The little airplane that could fly by itself kept its whereabouts a secret Monday.

The plane, a Piper Tri-Pacer owned by Ed Remington, soared off into the wild blue Sunday.

It had to be out of gas Monday, but just where remained a mystery.

Remington was cranking it by hand when the engine started with more gusto than he anticipated.

The plane scooted across the airport and made a better takeoff than some piloted ones. It was sighted east of Red Bluff, about 70 miles away, for the last time.

Remington's only consolation was that the takeoff of his $10,000 plane was "a thing of beauty—like a graceful bird."

Japan, Finns Detect Atom Blast in U.S.

By JOHN W. FINNEY

(Copyright 1961 by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON—To the surprise of U.S. scientists, an underground nuclear explosion earlier this month near Carlsbad, N.M., was detected by seismological observatories as far away as Finland and Japan.

The unexpected intercontinental detection of the relatively small explosion was described by government scientists as the first encouraging result to be obtained in the research program aimed at developing more reliable methods of detecting clandestine underground tests.

REAPPRAISED ACCURACY

The detection results from the New Mexico explosion on Dec. 10 already are forcing a reappraisal of the predicted effectiveness of the so-called "big hole" technique for concealing underground explosions.

As the seismological detection study of the New Mexico explosion proceeds, scientists may also be forced to revise some of their earlier estimates on the difficulty of detecting underground explosions in any test ban agreement.

The key technical problem standing in the way of a test ban agreement with the Soviet Union has been the difficulty of detecting small underground explosions and distinguishing them from natural earthquakes.

TOUGHER DETECTION

On the basis of a series of underground tests in Nevada in 1958, U.S. scientists had concluded that underground explosions would be far more difficult to detect than first presumed by East-West experts in 1958 and that the 180-station detection system worked out by the experts would have a detection threshold of 20 kilotons, rather than the predicted five kilotons.

The New Mexico explosion, 1,200 feet deep in a salt cavern 25 miles southeast of Carlsbad, had a yield of five kilotons, or the equivalent of 5,000 tons of TNT.

Indonesia Threatens To Invade

WASHINGTON (AP) — Indonesia's President Sukarno was reported Monday to have informed President John F. Kennedy that Indonesia would use force to settle its dispute with the Netherlands over Dutch New Guinea unless what he called Dutch provocation was halted immediately.

Informed diplomatic sources said Sukarno, replying to Kennedy's appeal for a peaceful settlement of the dispute, warned that Indonesia could not remain idle while the Netherlands took steps to create an independent government in western New Guinea.

Sukarno is expected to call for national mobilization in Indonesia Tuesday, it was reported earlier in Jakarta, the Indonesian capital.

Indonesia has claimed sovereignty over western New Guinea since it obtained independence in 1949 from the Netherlands.

The Sukarno reply to Kennedy was handed to Secretary of State Dean Rusk by Indonesian Ambassador Zairin Zain in an unscheduled 30-minute call at the State department late Monday.

Kennedy, who is nursing a cold in Palm Beach, Fla., was immediately notified of Sukarno's letter.

Kennedy Recovers from Cold, Prepares to Return to Capital

By MERRIMAN SMITH

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — President John F. Kennedy's heavy head cold responded quickly to sleep, medical care and sunbathing Monday. His physicians reported Monday night he was much improved and ready to return to Washington early Tuesday.

The chief executive was examined at 5:30 p.m. Monday by Capt. George Burkley, the Navy doctor assigned to the White House, and Dr. William Y. Sayad, Palm Beach ear, nose and throat specialist.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger reported after the second medical consultation since Kennedy and his wife arrived here Monday morning from South America that the doctors found him to be "much improved."

"The cold is much better, he is feeling well and going back to Washington Tuesday," Salinger said.

The President planned to take off Tuesday from West Palm Beach International Airport at 9 a.m., arriving two hours later at Andrews Air Force Base outside the capital. Weather permitting, he will continue on to the White House by helicopter.

The President had only one appointment announced for Tuesday, a 4 p.m. meeting with the National Security Council. He still plans to hold a news conference sometime Wednesday and take off Thursday at about 8 a.m. for Bermuda and a two-day meeting there with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

After the two doctors examined the chief executive Monday morning, he went to bed for a long sleep to make up for some of the long hours of his fastmoving weekend in Puerto Rico, Venezuela and Colombia.

During the afternoon the President sat beside the swimming pool and soaked up sun, but did not go in the water.

Gen. Adolf Heusinger

U.S. Snubs Russia On 'Nazi' General

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has declined even to accept the Soviet note which demanded the arrest of Gen. Adolf Heusinger, West German chairman of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization military committee.

The State Department, in announcing this Monday, said that the note was returned to the Soviet Foreign Ministry Dec. 15. It was dated Dec. 12.

State Department spokesman Lincoln White told a news conference that the reasons for this unusual diplomatic move were spelled out Dec. 13, the day the Soviet Union, at a news conference in Moscow, made public its charges against Heusinger.

The State Department, the same day, dismissed the Soviet demand as a "crude and ridiculous propaganda exercise."

The Soviets contended that Heusinger is a war criminal. The Soviet demand for the extradition of the West German general was contained in a note handed to Lewellyn Thompson, the U.S. ambassador to Moscow.

The timing indicated the decision to turn back the note as "unacceptable" was made after the contents had been relayed to Paris where Secretary of State Dean Rusk was attending a NATO conference.

The Soviet note said Heusinger was guilty of "crimes against peace, war crimes, and crimes against humanity."

Heusinger has been stationed in Washington since December 1960 when he was named chairman of the military committee of NATO.

Riders Lose Round In Supreme Court

By JERRY T. BAULCH

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court refused unanimously monday to halt prosecution of "freedom riders" in Jackson, Miss., mainly because those who asked a stay apparently were not among those arrested.

Samuel Bailey, Joseph Broadwater, and Burnett L. Jacob had asked for an injunction on behalf of people of their "class," until the questions involved could be tested in the state's courts.

They said a stay would ease what they called the enormous impact and expense inflicted by a "vexatious multiple prosecution program now being carried out" in Mississippi.

The court's brief unsigned order commented that "a federal injunction to stay state criminal proceedings is an extraordinary remedy." Then it went on to say:

"In addition to the considerations normally attending an application for such relief, a serious question of standing is presented on this motion, in that it appears that the movants themselves are not being prosecuted in the Mississippi courts."

Justices Hugo L. Black and Felix Frankfurter concurred solely on grounds that the three men are not being prosecuted in Mississippi.

The available papers did not identify Bailey, Broadwater, and Jacob or say what their role is with the Freedom Riders.

Apparently the way was left open for individuals facing prosecution in Jackson to ask the Supreme Court for a stay of proceedings and to appeal from a ruling by a three-judge federal court in Mississippi.

The three-judge court on Nov. 17 refused to grant a stay of prosecutions and declined to enjoin state and city officials from enforcing racial segregation under various Mississippi laws. The three-judge court said such issues had to be decided first in state courts.

In the Jackson case, attorneys for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People accused state officials of dragging out the prosecutions of more than 300 Freedom Riders and of refusing to agree to a test case of the laws under which they were arrested.

In other actions, the Supreme Court:

1. Unanimously decided that unless a reorganization is involved, the government may tax all the gains realized from an exchange of stock in a wholly owned corporation for stock in another firm plus cash. Grover D. Turnbow of San Francisco had claimed that he should pay the regular tax only on the cash received in such a transaction and that the remander should be taxed on a capital gains basis.

2. Refused to rule on the right of New York State's attorney general to proceed with an injunction action against a book entitled "How I Made $2 million in the Stock Market." The author is Nicholas Darvas.

Robert Kennedy Hails Albany Mayor

son, addressed a packed meeting at Shiloh Baptist Church shortly after his release on bond. Then King caught a plane for Atlanta.

King told the cheering throng "it wasn't necessary" for him to remain in jail as he had previously promised. He said one of his goals had been achieved—"the bus terminal and train station in Albany, Ga., are thoroughly integrated."

Earlier, Chief Pritchett told newsmen that the transportation facilities have not been segregated since an Interstate Commerce Commission order forbidding it.

"Our force is pledged to enforce all laws city, state and federal. And, of course, federal laws take precedence," the chief said.

Before he left town, King denied there was any rift in the leadership of the Albany Movement and Anderson said that now that he has been released from jail, he will reassume his responsibilities as head of the Albany Movement.

He told all Negroes who "lost a job as a result of going to jail" to convene at noon Tuesday at Shiloh Baptist Church and "we will provide for you." He said the same applied to those who needed medical attention as a result of being jailed in the demonstrations.

King admitted to reporters that the demonstration in which he participated was a "potentially explosive situation." He praised the work of Chief Pritchett in handling the situation and thanked the chief for the courtesy extended to him.

King said he was not treated so courteously in the Sumter County jail at nearby Americus, where he was taken "for his own protection" following his arrest.

Sheriff Fred Chappelle of Sumter County spoke rudely to King and addressed him as "boy," the integration leader said.

Apparently the release of the Negroes ends the racial strife which has prevailed in this city for the past eight days and has resulted in the arrest of 737 persons.

Albany City Manager Steve Roos said he understood that the Negroes have been told that they can present their grievances through "normal channels" to the seven-man City Commission.

Previously a majority of the commission had refused to hear Negroes' demands on grounds that there was "no area for agreement."

And even in Monday's negotiations, the city commission refused to confront the Negro committee face-to-face. Instead, the three-man committee—Marion S. Page, member of the Albany Movement executive committee; Albany attorney C. B. King, and Atlanta attorney Donald Hollowell—met in the mayor's office. The mayor vacated his office and spent the day about 15 feet away with the other six commissioners in the city commission room.

BACK AND FORTH

Chief Pritchett and Albany City Attorney Grady Rawls spent a large part of the day going back and forth between the two rooms presenting proposals and counter-proposals.

The final agreement apparently has this effect:

1. Indefinite suspension of protest activities.

2. Release of some 427 persons within the next two days.

3. The removal of "outside Negro elements" from the Albany scene."

4. The promise of a hearing of Negro grievances at future city commission meetings.

However, the agreement leaves up in the air the fate of 32 juvenile offenders who were arrested twice during the demonstration, and of six "freedom riders" from outside Albany who are held on state charges.

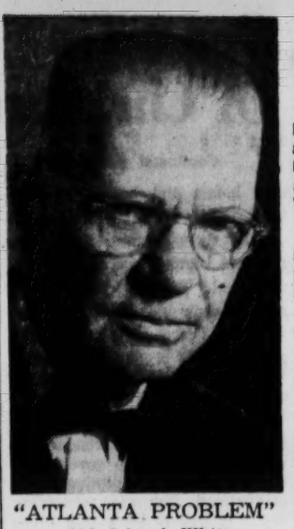
Two Albany Negroes arrested with the "freedom riders" outside Terminal Station will be released on signature bonds. Three others from outside Albany have been previously released and six, including two whites, remained in jail in lieu of cash bonds of $750 and $1,000. Judge Israel later reduced these bonds to $200 and $400 as an inducement for their leaving.

Page also addressed the Negro rally at Shiloh Monday night and said that Negro leaders had chosen him to meet with the incoming Albany city commission when it is sworn in Jan. 11. He said Monday marked "the beginning of a new type of racial relationships" in Albany.

Page said, "This may not be exactly all that we wanted, but it is a beginning."

He emphasized that the Albany Movement had never ordered a boycott of local white merchants, but he said he had urged Negroes "to save their money this Christmas and have homemade dolls and repainted bicycles."

The city feted the national and international press corps at a steak supper at Radium Springs Monday night "in appreciation for the accurate coverage of Albany's difficulties."



"ATLANTA PROBLEM"
Ald. John A. White

City Control of Transit Unlikely

the aldermanic board Monday afternoon by Ald. John A. White, finance committee chairman and also head of the board's Rapid Transit Committee.

White said rapid transit at this stage is primarily an Atlanta problem. He contended that efforts to include other governmental units now would require ratification of needed constitutional amendments by all of them and that failure by any one could kill the whole program.

POWER TO CONDEMN

The proposed Atlanta authority could have power to condemn for rights-of-way and other facilities and also to issue revenue certificates as a means of financing rapid transit.

Answering objections to the city's having full control of the initial program, White and others expressed the opinion that it would be simpler for the city to spearhead the development.

Mackay said all of the legislators "are handicapped by not having yet been handed any proposed constitutional amendment or proposed legislation" for consideration at the '62 General Assembly session which is less than three weeks away from convening.

DELIBERATE PLANNING

Rep. Brooks said that "however well-intended" the aldermen's proposal might be ("and I feel confident it is well-intended"), each step taken "must be deliberate and made with a maximum amount of planning and proper consideration."

Brooks said that any rapid transit plan should "stay abreast with all the areas concerned" and not "get off on a tangent which might scuttle the entire proposal."

He said he feels sure, however, that "proper action will be taken at the coming session to insure rapid transit for all our people in the metropolitan area."

Reds Stone Holiday Trees At Berlin Wall

BERLIN (UPI) — East German police again Monday stoned some of the 1,000 Christmas trees lining the Western side of their border wall while the U.S. Air Force delivered 10 tons of Christmas gifts and clothing to refugees in the free side of the city.

The gifts, including $2,500 in cash, were donated by residents of Ingolstadt in Bavaria and were airlifted by U.S. planes as a holiday goodwill gesture.

Most of the recipients will be children and adults, now separated from relatives in East Berlin, who fled to the West after the border wall went up on Aug. 13.

West Berlin police said Communist border guards destroyed some of the 50,000 twinkling tree lights with stones. The trees, extending the length of the 25-mile wall, were lighted Sunday night by West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt.

The twin-engine airplanes were to be loaded with hay at Window Rock and then drop it over the western part of the reservation in Arizona and New Mexico.

Indians Drive To Goa Capital

miles from Pangim late Monday. The Defense Ministry had no word about the situation in southern Goa.

Indian naval forces captured the tiny Indian Ocean island of Anjidiv, south of Goa, from which the Portuguese allegedly had fired on Indian shipping. Indian sailors were reported to have been fired on by the Portuguese garrison after going ashore in response to a white flag flown from the island.

SHIP KNOCKED OUT

Ships of the Indian navy put out of action the Portuguese frigate Albuquerque, which was said to have been firing on Indian ships and planes in Goan waters.

The Indian Air Force bombed and put out of action Pangim Airfield to prevent planes from taking off. The same was done to the airstrip at Diu. Indian troops occupied the airfield at Damao.

The Defense Ministry spokesman said, however, that no opposition had been met from Portuguese planes. He said Indian Canberra bombers, jet fighters and transports were in action. In response to a question, he said paratroops had not been used "yet."

There was no word of casualties. Indian forces captured over 30 Portuguese prisoners. The Defense Ministry said the northern Goan town of Bicholim had been destroyed by retreating Portuguese. It was reported that a Portuguese message had been intercepted ordering a scorched earth policy for other places left to the advancing Indians.

3RD ARE CATHOLICS

Indian troops were under orders to protect from damage places of worship and other religious edifices. Over a third of Goa's population of 650,000 is Roman Catholic.

A Defense Ministry spokesman said military operations were going according to plan. He said towns captured in the 1,309 square mile territory of Goa were Sanquelim, Assonora, Collem, Molim, Usgoa and Banastarim.

It was understood on reliable authority that decision to use military force to drive the Portuguese from their 450-year-old territories on the Indian subcontinent was taken Saturday after Nehru received a letter on Goa from the United Nations Secretary General U Thant. Monday India officially informed all diplomatic missions in New Delhi of her action and the reasons for it.

ASKED INTERVAL

It was also understood that the final U.S. appeal to Portugal not to use force included a request to wait six months or at least long enough to let the Portuguese show any intention they may have had to withdraw peacefully. U.S. Ambassador John Kenneth Galbraith conferred with Nehru late Sunday night on Goa.

Thant's messages to both New Delhi and Lisbon are understood to have played an important role because the secretary general suggested negotiations on a basis of the U.N. charter and other principles. Reference was to resolutions calling for an end of colonialism everywhere.

Portugal is understood here to have accepted this proposal only if reference to the United Nations were stricken out. This was taken by India to mean that Lisbon still insisted that its territories were part of metropolitan Portugal and not colonies.

SURGERY?

According to Foreign Secretary M. J. Desai, the choice then before India was on one hand to do nothing and give up hope of freeing Goa of Portuguese rule and on the other to conduct a "surgical operation with a minimum of force."

Desai said other factors were that Goans in India were preparing to march into Goa and that there was a breakdown of law and order in much of the territory.

If the Indian forces did not go in, he told Western correspondents, they would have been faced with a choice of either shooting advancing Goans or seeing them shot by the Portuguese. Desai also emphasized that Indian forces were restoring law and order as well as "assisting the liberation movement."

He said that while India subscribed to peaceful principles, this did not mean she would "submit to everything." He pointed out that India had tried unsuccessfully for 14 years to negotiate with Portugal over her territories.

Desai said India did not consider herself at war with Portugal. In his statement, Nehru said India did not want to "nourish ill-will against them."

would be willing to agree to a plebiscite, he said:

2 Boys Fail To Scoot From Police

Two burglary suspects Monday blamed their capture on the slowness of a getaway vehicle.

Patrolmen A. C. Potts and R. E. McElreath said they answered a call to 94 Melton Ave., SE to investigate a burglary and upon arrival saw two small boys coming down the driveway in a home-made scooter wagon.

Officers said they chased down the two and in the scooter wagon found a claw hammer and two soft drinks. They said the two—aged 13 and 15—admitted using the hammer to pry open a window at the chemical company on Melton avenue.

They helped themselves to five soft drinks, officers said, and had finished three of them before police arrived.

Potts and McElreath said the two admitted with several others breaking into several service stations in the area recently.

(Names of accused persons under 17 years of age are withheld in accordance with the Georgia juvenile court law. Patrolmen said the two were turned over to juvenile cvourt.)

promptly rejected the four-power resolution as having "no basis in reality."

"THE TIDE OF HISTORY"

"We are bound to conclude that this means only a tacit approval of colonialism and perpetuation of Portuguese colonialism in India," he said. "We are strongly opposed to this resolution . . . it has no relation to the great movement, the great tide of history."

The Western proposal was made public shortly before midnight.

FORBIDDEN MOVE

"Let us be perfectly clear what is at stake here, gentlemen," Stevenson said in his opening speech. "It is the question of the use of arms by force by one state against another and against its will, an act clearly forbidden by the charter. We have opposed such action in the past by our closest friends as well as by others. We opposed it in Korea in 1950, in Suez and in Hungary in 1956, in the Congo in 1960, and we do so again in Goa in 1961."

The Security Council met at 3:33 p.m. in response to a Portuguese request, submitted earlier Monday for an immediate meeting "to put a stop to the condemnable act of aggression of the Indian Union, ordering an immediate cease-fire and the withdrawal forthwith from the Portuguese territories of Goa, Damao and Diu of all the invading forces of the Indian Union."

The Portuguese complaint said that "the aggression now committed is the result of cold-blooded premeditation" and that pending Security Council action "Portugal has no alternative but to defend itself against this aggression by the Indian union."

Portugal's retention of her possessions in India was denounced by Russia's Zorin as the basic cause of the situation. He asserted that Portugal had created a threat to peace and security by refusing to carry out a General Assembly resolution, adopted last year, which urged the colonial powers to take "immediate steps" for the grant of independence to the remaining non-self-governing and colonial territories.

DENIES JURISDICTION

Zorin declared that Goa and the other Portuguese possessions were "Indian territory," which had happened to fall under the administration of a colonial power, and that the Security Council had no jurisdiction over a "domestic" matter of India's. He added that he could only wonder at India's "extreme patience."

Zorin directed most of his attack against the United States rather than Portugal. Challenging Stevenson's statement that the U.N. must not apply a "double standard" regarding resort to force in violation of the U.N. charter, Zorin accused the United States of having been guilty of such actions when it sent the Marines to Lebanon in 1958, when it was involved in the anti-Castro landing in Cuba last April, and during the present "aggression" against the Dominican Republic.

Turning to Stevenson, Zorin said that "you assist the Portuguese colonial empire, and condemn those fighting against it."

Zorin emphasized that the United States and Britain were "in solidarity with their ally in NATO—Portugal," and against "colonial people," whereas "we are in solidarity with the people of India and the people of Goa."

Cease-Fire In Katanga Reported to "hold their fire" if two conditions had been met.

The conditions are:

1. The immediate abjectives in Elisabethville are achieved.

TSHOMBE TO TALK

2. Firm arrangements are made for Tshombe to fly from Kitwe to Kitona, in the eastern part of the Congo, for a meeting with Adoula.

The U.N. spokesman said no words has been received here that a cease-fire was in effect or that Tshombe was on his way to Kitona.

Earlier Thant declared that U.N. military action in Katanga would be limited "to the strict minimum required to put an end to the murderous assaults of the mercenary-led gendarmes."

'WE SHALL SEE'

Thant's statement was in reply to a charge by Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak that U.N. forces were killing increasing numbers of civilians in their homes by indiscriminate bombardment in Elisabethville.

Meanwhile, Tshombe arrived in Kitwe and was joined by U.S. Ambassador Edmund Gullion. They planned to fly Tuesday to Kitona.

Asked about the prospects of peace Tshombe told newsmen: "We shall see."

The fighting in Elisabethville ended Monday night as U.N. patrols for the first time pierced into the heart of the city.

Associated Press dispatches of the faded fighting reached Ndola by automobile.

KATANGESE FLEE

They said the city appeared totally emptied of Katanga soldiers as Irish and Swedish troops moved into the center of town.

Even as U.N. forces consolidated their hold, Katangans were reported planning to continue guerrilla resistance in the bush. A white officer in the Katanga army said, "We don't mind. We are replanning our campaign on the basis of the U.N. occupying Elisabethville. Believe me, the war has just begun."

In London, Britain's Foreign Secretary, the Earl of Home, warned that the situation in the Congo could reach a point where the government would have to withdraw financial support for the United Nations.

Speaking with the utmost gravity, the Earl of Home told the House of Lords the United Nations might "sow the seeds of its own destruction."

eign hotels and homes to help their families live.

Until recent years, Goa, like Diu and Damao, was largely agricultural, growing rice, coconuts, cashew and betel nuts and mangos. Discovery of mangense and iron ore produced a mining industry, with Indians making up up most of the work force.

But despite the poor economics, Portugal refuses to surrender Goa willingly. The Lisbon government insists Goa is a constitutional part of Portugal. But many observers say it is strictly pride that keeps the Portuguese clinging to the vanished traditions of Asian empire.

Goa is the administrative seat for Portugal's last holdings in Asia—the Indian enclaves, half the island of Timor in the East Indies and Macao on the doorstep of Red China.

And to Portugal's Catholics, Goa is still the Rome of the East. St. Francis Xavier, the apostle of the Indies, spent 10 years in Goa and is largely responsible for half the population being Catholic.

When he died in China in 1552 his body was returned to Goa's Church of Bom Jesus where it still reposes.

But all these arguments of the Portuguese are rejected by India, which insists the Portuguese must leave and ring down the curtain on colonialism on the subcontinent. Portugal's far-flung empire embraces two enormous African colonies—Angola and Mozambique—and they are actively wracked by nationalist rebellion.

The Portuguese were the last foreigners to claim sovereignty over Indian territory. The British pulled up in 1947, and the French gave up their small East Coast territories later.

Off the usual main track of modern history, Goa played a minor role in World War II. It was there that the second exchange of American and Japanese internees was effected by the Japanese repatriation ship Tia Maru and the neutral Swedish liner Gripsholm in 1943.

or grades of tobacco and the labeling which the federal government has adopted, complementary state regulation is as fatal as state regulations which conflict with the federal scheme," the court said.

Justice Hugo Black wrote the dissent. He said the Georgia law "is designed to and does help to effectuate the federal act and to secure all of the benefits of that act's official tobacco type classifications." Black said for the court to rule that a federal law compels states to abandon laws "completely in harmony" was to depart "drastically" from its regular practices.

"There's not a word in the Tobacco Inspection Act nor has anything been cited in its legislative history that indicates a clear and manifest purpose on the part of Congress to preclude the exercise by Georgia of the historic power of states to pass local legislation to protect the integrity of its tobacco on the market . . . ," Black said.

Georgia's law was challenged by tobacco warehousemen in the Swainsboro-Statesboro area. Tobacco tagged Type 14 brought higher prices than tobacco from the Carolinas. Warehousemen charged that the law was discriminatory and that it hurt their business.

The attorney representing them in the suit said that they had to have Carolina tobacco or they wouldn't have the volume to stay in business. He said there was no difference between the tobacco grown in Georgia and South Carolina.

Buyers wouldn't pay as much for the Carolina tobacco, he said, because buyers knew that tobacco brought a long distance would not be taken off the market and returned home if the price was low. The tags let the buyers know at a glance which tobacco had come a long distance.

Byrd Will Urge Legislature Change 'Unfair' Sales Tax Law

Lt. Gov. Garland T. Byrd disclosed Monday he will go to the Legislature with amendments to the "unfair" state sales tax law.

He indicated he would try to reinstate higher brackets that were dropped a year ago. The lower brackets were installed by State Revenue Commissioner Dixon Oxford and they boosted tax collections.

Byrd told The Atlanta Constitution, "I am dissatisfied with the present bracket system of handling the state sales tax. It is unfair to both the merchant and the consumer.

"I am now conducting a thorough study into the present system and will have recommendations to make at a later date."

The lieutenant governor's decision to seek changes in the sales tax law brings him to a split with Gov. Ernest Vandiver on this issue, and places him on the side of a bill already pending in the House of Representatives.

Vandiver has said he will veto any measure that would alter the state's tax income for the remainder of his administration.

The pending sales tax bill was authored by Bibb County Rep. Taylor Phillips and was signed by 54 House members (103 House votes are necessary for passage).

Byrd reportedly was studying that bill and might endorse it. If he finds it unacceptable, he probably will introduce his own bill.

Phillips' bill would have merchants begin collecting one cent on each sale of 14 cents. Under Oxford's regulation, one cent is collected on transactions of 11 cents or more.

The bill also would set this scale: 36 to 72 cents — 2 cents tax; 73 cents to $1 — 3 cents tax.

Phillips maintains the amounts to be collected should be written into the law. He said the commissioner should not arbitrarily raise or lower the tax rates.

He also contends the new regulations have been harmful to small merchants who have had to purchase expensive new cash registers to keep track of each transaction.

The Revenue Department has not estimated the amount of additional income which has been collected because of the new brackets. But legislators have said that $1.2 million are involved.

The bill pending in the House has a narrow, 7-6, unfavorable recommendation from the Ways and Means Committee.

But Phillips and his supporters believe they can maneuver the bill onto the floor by moving to disagree with the committee report.

If successful in that move, they could bring on full-scale debate on the measure.

How serious the split with Vandiver might be could not be determined immediately. But there were strong indications that Vandiver would not approve such legislation if it were passed.

In that event, Byrd likely would make the system of bracketing one of his campaign planks in the campaign for governor next summer.

'Cornfield Road' to Be Completed, Highway Board Tells Bibb Group

That paved road in Bibb County that ends abruptly in a cornfield apparently is on its way out.

The road was begun a number of years ago to tie in with the Warner Robins highway. But for some reason work on it was stopped in the cornfield.

And the road's been sitting there unused ever since.

But Monday, a delegation of 15 Bibb countians were told here by the State Highway board that the state is planning considerable road improvements in Bibb, one of which will include completion of the "Cornfield Road."

Chairman Jim L. Gillis and Board Member Clarke Duncan also said an interchange is being considered to link the road to Mead Road, with the entire project to be completed by 1963.

State funds also were offered to match Macon-Bibb funds to widen Pio Nono Avenue to four lanes in the West Gate Shopping Center area. About 4½ miles of the street would be resurfaced.

Hungary Raises Age For Death Penalty

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Communist Hungary has raised the minimum age for capital punishment to 20 years as part of a sweeping penal reform. Justice Minister Ferenc Nezval said under the old law juveniles—12 to 18 year olds—could be sentenced to death but never were.

School Tax Boost In 1963 Is Feared

City Must Increase Revenues In Some Way, Officials Warn

Atlanta schools must increase school taxes in 1963 or obtain revenue from other sources, school officials said Monday night.

During a public hearing on the 1962 school budget, Supt. John W. Letson, Ed S. Cook, chairman of the board's budget committee, and others said more money is imperative if the existing educational program is to be maintained.

The existing 16.25 mill tax levy for school purposes will be retained in 1962, but they posted a warning sign for the future.

LARGEST BUDGET

Dr. Letson presented the proposed 1962 budget, calling for an outlay of $31,829,445, the largest in the city's history. It compares with a budget carrying allocations of $29,752,491 for the current year.

Mrs. William S. Shelfer, chairman of the educational committee of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, questioned an outlay of $1 million for a new administrative building, asked a review of the area superintendent system, asked the board to hold firm on the position regarding tuition grants, and called for a close watch on varsity sports.

Dr. Letson told the board the history of public education is that there is never enough money and that the program must be cut to the available revenues. He said school budgets generally represent what the public is willing to buy.

32,000 GAIN

He exhibited slides to show that school enrollment has increased from 80,00 in 1952 to 112,000 in 1962; that a majority of Atlanta public school students probably will be made up of Negroes by 1965; that the state pays 29.5 per cent of the cost of public education in Atlanta, the federal government .7 per cent; that salaries will total $26.4 million in the new budget, or 82.84 per cent of the total. The per pupil cost of education in Atlanta is $285 a year, compared to $324 for Fulton county, $224 for DeKalb county, and a U.S. average of $361, based on 1959 U.S. reports (the comparative costs exclude transportation).

He said that no tuition grants are included in the budget but that the contingent fund has $300,000 and another $300,000 can be added if tax collections average 98 per cent for 1961.

CITES INCOME LAG

Cook said income is not keeping pace with school costs and warned that unless more revenue is found from some other source or sources, a tax increase will become mandatory in 1963 if the existing educational program is maintained.

Other board members and administrative staff members agreed with Cook's analysis.

Dr. Letson said the new budget contemplates the naming of 10 executive assistants to overcrowded schools in the Atlanta system. He was emphatic in stressing that this does not mean reestablishment of the assistant superintendent posts, lately abolished. He said the asistants would be paid "teachers salaries."

Court Denies Tuition Case Legal Fees

Fulton Superior Court Judge Durwood Pye rejected a request Monday that the Atlanta Board of Education pay attorney's fees for a plaintiff seeking a private school tuition grant.

But the judge delayed entering a final order in the case until Friday.

Judge Pye already has ruled on the main questions in the case. He held Nov. 22 that Georgia's tuition grant law is constitutional and that 11-year-old Carla Aikens is entitled to receive a grant under the law.

But Judge Pye said Monday he has changed his mind about two points in the ruling. He said he would modify the decision by setting the starting date for the grant at July 1 instead of Sept. 1, and giving the school board broader discretion in establishing differentials between high school and elementary grants.

The attorney and Miss Aikens, Moreton Rolleston, had asked the court to award him "reasonable" fees, to be paid by the defendants.

Even with the entering of the order next Friday, the Atlanta Board of Education is not expected to pay out any grants immediately.

The board has indicated it will appeal Judge Pye's decision.

GRINNING GUESTS LEAVE MANSION WITH CHRISTMAS GIFTS

Two of 86 Who Were Entertained by Gov. and Mrs. Vandiver

Vandivers Play Santa Claus For 86 Awed Youngsters

By DICK HEBERT

The old stone governor's mansion on The Prado became "home" to 86 children Monday afternoon.

Gov. and Mrs. Ernest Vandiver became "mom" and "dad" and "Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus" for the two hours of the Christmas party for children of four Atlanta child-care homes wtho "still believe in Santa Claus."

With smiles and eyes brighter than the lights on the Vandiver's ceiling-high revolving Christmas tree, they sang carols, did somersaults on the living room carpet, gobbled down ice cream, cookies and soft drinks—and eyed with wonder their new-found home and family.

"Is Santa Claus going to be here?" one asked of the governor at the door as he came in.

Highpoint of the evening was tion lighting outside. Over 12,000 tion outside. Over 12,000 multicolored lights decorate the executive mansion facade and lawn with Santa and his team of reindeer soaring off overhead.

The children listened attentively while the governor addressed them, but they didn't seem to catch the impilcations of his message.

"Perhaps you wonder why grownups are so busy making new weapons, planning fallout shelters and arguing with each other in the United Nations. All of this is necessary if our country and our state is to protect its citizens and guarantee that we will have many more Christmas seasons blessed by the peaceful sound of chimes, not the roar of guns."

And then the lights were turned on.

The children, ranging from 7 to 11 years, came from Hillside Cottages, Georgia Baptist Children's Home, Oak Hill Home and Methodist Children's Home.

Jernigan Sworn In to Geer's Post

Is Given Oath As Vandiver Aide

Wallace Jernigan of Homerville, an administrative aide to Gov. Ernest Vandiver, Monday was sworn in as his executive secretary.

He succeeds Peter Zack Geer of Colquitt, who resigned the $10,000-a-year post Dec. 15, apparently to prepare to run for the office of lieutenant governor in next year's Democratic primary.

Jernigan is a former state senator. He earlier had been mentioned as a possible candidate for Congress against Rep. Iris Blitch in the Eighth District.

Gov. Vandiver Monday also swore in J. Alvan Davis, 52, of Columbus as judge of the Superior Court of the Chattahoochee Judicial Circuit.

Davis was appointed to the bench after Judge Hubert Calhoun resigned. Calhoun was sworn in Monday by Vandiver as judge emeritus.

Frightening Asthma Attacks End In Minutes As New Formula Unblocks Lung Passages Fast

New Medical Formula Restores Free Breathing Without Vaccines, Shots Or Narcotics. Calms Anxiety. No Prescription Needed

New York, N.Y. (Special)—A team of scientists has announced a new formula that stops frightening asthma attacks in minutes and unblocks lung passages fast.

Medical tests prove this formula promptly restores free breathing, so calms anxiety and relieves the worst symptoms of asthma—the straining for breath, the gasping, the wheezing, the terrible fear of suffocation. All without vaccines, painful shots or habit-forming drugs. This new formula is so safe that it can be sold without prescription in tiny tablets called BRONITIN®.

Doctors know that when asthma strikes, breathing tubes become swollen, lung passages become blocked, so air is "trapped" inside lungs and less and less oxygen can enter. Now BRONITIN, with two asthma-relieving medicines that doctors prescribe for their patients, acts quickly to open bronchial tubes and loosen the mucus that blocks lung passages. Trapped air is released and new vital oxygen enters the lungs.

The result is: free breathing is restored, tension eased and so fears are calmed in minutes. Sufferers can now look forward to restful sleep.

Get BRONITIN—available at all drug stores without prescription.

Columbus Votes Down Wine-Pouring Permits

COLUMBUS—The city comission voted 3-2 Monday against a proposed "wine-pouring" license ordinance which foes, including many local ministers, claimed was intended to "legalize" mixed-drink sales.

City Attorney Lonnie Davis told Mayor B. Ed Johnson at the commission session that the ordinance would violate no state law but that mixed-drink sales would violate state law regardless of the ordinance.

The commission by the same vote killed a proposed ordinance to bring licensing control to the widespread practice of Columbus establishments which serve "mixings" for customers who bring their own whisky bottles.

City Votes $40,000 in Renewal

Funds to Benefit Georgia State Area

Atlanta aldermen Monday agreed to advance $40,000 to implement a multi-million-dollar urban renewal project in the Georgia State College area.

The money will cover cost of surveys and land appraisals for a strip along the south side of Decatur Street, extending from Central Avenue to Piedmont Avenue. The area is only a small part of the over-all renewal effort which will be bounded roughly by Decatur, Butler, and Gilmer streets and Central Avenue.

Alderman G. Everett Millican, chairman of the aldermanic board's Urban Renewal Committee, offered the proposal. It has the approval of Dr. Noah Langdale, president of the college, who assured the city that it will be reimbursed.

Advance of the fund will permit early engineering and appraisals to expedite filing of formal petitions for the project.

DeKalb Lists Leaders for Polio March

Don McConaughey, chairman of the 1962 March of Dimes for DeKalb County, has named Mrs. C. B. Ryan and Mrs. A. M. Buckler, both of Decatur, as cochairmen of the Jan. 30 "Mother's March."

Miss Aldine Richardson has been named treasurer, and Mrs. W. A. Hancock is drive secretary. Mrs. Mary L. Crane and Linton Broome will serve as publicity chairmen for the drive.

DeKalb Superior Court Clerk Ben B. Burgess will serve as chairman of the advance gifts and industry committees. Serving with him will be Judge H. O. Hubert Jr., legal division; Dr. L. C. Buchanan, medical; Dr. William E. Avery Jr., dental; Roy A. Blount Sr., business; Sam A. Moss, DeKalb schools; Carl G. Renfroe, Decatur schools, and Dr. Robert A. Davis, churches.

William E. Purcell, principal of Decatur High School, is chairman of teen-age programs. Charles J. Lyons heads the coin collections.

The kick-off banquet will be Dec. 29 at 7 p.m. in the Decatur-DeKalb YMCA.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Look for a breakthrough, which could prove especially fortunate in money matters. Mercury passes into House of career, while Moon is in House of money.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Cycle at a peak but you must remember "the fault is not in our stars." Plan program to impress superiors. Tonight relax.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Mercury leaves opposition to your natal Sun. This means you can expect relief from pressure. Be grateful.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Each step should be taken with caution today. Tendency is for others to want to lay trap. Nothing really malicious. But very time-wasting if you permit it to be. Rest tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): New ideas sparked late tonight. Better not try to force issues, creative activity until later. Otherwise, you merely wear yourself to a "frazzle." But tonight—much needed inspiration!

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Similar to Taurus pattern. But you gain from a member of the opposite sex. Pay close attention.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): The worst has passed. Now, Libra, bring forth charm, and that wonderful talent for appreciation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Necessary at this time to take stock of public relations. Think about how the world looks to you—and how you look to the world.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): You often wish for a day like this one could be. Romantic, adventurous — filled with surprises, opportunities. Now, see that you make the most of it!

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): You can do this better by yourself. But please be diplomatic. Go ahead—alone!

Negroes Win Writ on Test For Transfer

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—A federal judge enjoined the Charlottesville School Board Monday from compelling Negro students seeking transfer to white schools to take scholastic aptitude tests not given white students.

At the same time, U.S. District Judge John Paul ordered nine Negro students admitted to predominantly white Lane High School.

In a 10-page opinion, Judge Paul said the school board must abandon the practice of requiring Negroes to take scholastic aptitude and related tests so long as similar tests are not applied to white children seeking transfer from one school to another.

In a related case, the judge dismissed the petitions of 23 Negro elementary students seeking admission to white schools. The judge held that Charlottesville's present school assignment plan, based entirely on residence, is satisfactory as long as there is no discrimination as to race.

On the other hand, Paul said no race will be forced to go to a school where another race is predominant. He noted that 140 white students in the Jefferson Elementary School District had been allowed to transfer to other schools. Jefferson is a Negro school. He also noted that 50 Negroes living outside the Jefferson district had transferred to Jefferson.

The judge stayed execution of his order to allow both sides an appeal to the U.S. Fourth Circuit Court.

All Race Statutes Periled, State Says

3 U.S. Judges Hear Plea To Halt ICC Bus Ruling

By ACHSAH POSEY

Attorneys for Georgia admitted in federal court Monday that all state laws requiring or enforcing segregation were "hanging on the legislative tree like dead leaves ready to be swept down."

Assistant Atty. Gen. Paul Rodgers made the statement while aruging before a 3-judge hearing for an injunction to stop the September Interstate Commerce Commission order requiring that no interstate bus passengers be served by segregated buses or segregated terminal facilities.

"To many the ends may be desirable," Rodgers said, but the order exceeded the constitutional power of the commission, and threatened to "destroy all vestiges of state regulation" of intrastate commerce.

REPRESENTS PSC

Rodgers represented the Georgia Public Service Commission which sought an injunction Oct. 31 to prevent the order from taking effect Nov. 1. U.S. District Judge Lewis R. Morgan denied a temporary restraining order and a preliminary injunction which would have held up the order until the court's decision.

Judge Elbert Tuttle, chief judge for the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals, Judge Morgan, and U.S. District Judge Frank A. Hooper heard arguments on the permanent injunction Monday.

"Our theory of the case is that race does not enter into it," Rodgers said, but that the issue was "to specify the bounds of ICC powers."

Rodgers argued that the PSC had the power to eliminate unjust discrimination against interstate carrier passengers, and that discrimination against interstate passengers was already a part of the general rules set forth by the ICC, and needed no further order.

RIDERS CITED

The order, which resulted from testing "Freedom Riders," infringed on state sovereignty by in effect regulating interstate commerce as well as interstate passengers, Rodgers said. "Segregation laws (concerning buses tnd terminals) as a practical matter are not being enforced," he added, quoting rules of a major interstate bus company which forbids seating people by race.

Judge Tuttle commented that until a court held that the Georgia statutes requiring segregation by race are unconstitutional or they were changed, there is "no way to interjret the statutes to allow the Public Service Commission legally to end discrimination."

The state claimed that the order as written would open the door for ICC regulation of rates and entry and all phases of intrastate traffic if allowed to stand.

ARE FORBIDDEN

Robert W. Ginnane, general counsel for the ICC, replied that these things were specifically forbidden to the ICC, and in no danger of occurring. The power the state was trying to reserve was an illegal power, Ginnane said, since it was the power to maintain segregated facilities which courts had held illegal repeatedly.

"We do not expect or anticipate that segregation will be maintained," whether or not the ICC order is set aside, Rodgers said.

At several points during the hearing the judges asked if the PSC would eliminate discrimination in intrastate bus travel, and each time Rodgers said he could not make commitments for the PSC.

ELIMINATING POSSIBLE

He said, however, that "the commission may start eliminating discrimination in years to come."

Harold H. Greene, attorney for the Civil Rights division of the Justice department, claimed that the order is necessary to assure against discrimination directed toward interstate passengers, including having to prove they are interstate passengers.

Discrimination was so widespread, the federal attorneys contended, that handling it case by case was ineffectual. The order provides implementation which the earlier rule did not.

Interview Room Cash Is Barred

DeKalb County Attorney George Dillard has ruled that bond money for fire stations cannot be used for construction of police "interview rooms" in the stations.

Public Safety Director William Graham Jr. had asked Dillard for an opinion.

HOLD PRISONERS

The rooms would be used for holding prisoners until they could be picked up by a patrol wagon, rather than pulling a car out of the district to deliver the prisoner to the county jail, Graham said. The rooms would also be used as a place for officers to meet and to keep forms and other police equipment.

The controversial "interview rooms" have brought comment from several DeKalb officials.

In the Dec. 12 meeting of the commission, Commissioner Brince Manning made the motion to deny Graham the authority to establish the rooms. The motion failed to carry.

LEGAL RIGHT

Judge J. Oscar Mitchell of the DeKalb's Civil and Criminal Court in a statement last week, said "The law provides that every person under arrest has the legal right to bail, except in capital offenses, and further provides that when a person is arrested under a warrant charging him with a crime it is the duty of such arresting officer to immediately place such person in the confines of the common jail."

Judge Mitchell also stated that any person legally arrested without a warrant, had the right under the law to be conveyed to the most convenient magistrate authorized to issue a criminal warrant.

Dillard said Monday he agrees with Judge Mitchell. He said, however, "the rooms were legal as long as they were used for questioning witnesses or suspects, but not for questioning persons arrested without a warrant."

POSSIBLE VIOLATION

In reply to Judge Mitchell's statement on the legality of the rooms, Commission Chairman Charles O. Emmerich said Friday, "The county may be violating the law since we are now taking all juveniles to our modern new Juvenile Home instead of the common jail."

Emmerich said he would look into the matter of the juveniles being taken to the home and "comply with the proper legal procedure."

He said the commission had yet to be asked to approve the installation of the rooms in certain fire stations.

Georgia's Dams Hold Firm, Ease Threat of New Floods

By FRANK WELLS

North Georgians watched the clay-colored rivers nibbling at their banks Monday and gave thanks for the dams that were saving them from even worse winter floods.

Rome, which gains most benefit from the Allatoona Reservoir on the Etowah River, watched the Oostanaula, which pours into the Etowah at Rome, push the waters up to a high of more than 27 feet, with an expected crest of 29 feet sometime Tuesday morning. Flood stage in Rome is 25 feet.

And more rains are expected Tuesday afternoon.

"The ground is soaked, so every bit of water that falls out of the sky is running down into the rivers," Atlanta's weatherman said Monday.

STREETS COVERED

In Rome, Police Chief Smith Horton said the river was already out of its banks and had covered "five or six streets here. We have had to move some families out of four or five houses in south Rome where the water had already covered the floor."

Chief Horton said the river was expected to crest at 29 feet—four over flood stage of 25 feet.

"We'll have about 12 houses that can't be lived in then," Chief Horton said. "Thank God for that dam on the Etowah River."

An Army Corps of Engineers spokesman in Atlanta said that water in Allatoona was already more than four feet into the "flood pool"—the reservoir provided for just such rainfall as has fallen during the past few weeks.

GENERATORS IDLE

"We aren't generating at Allatoona and won't until the danger of flooding down river is past," Burton Bell of the engineers said Monday.

Bell reported that Lake Sidney Lanier was just about three inches into the flood pool with the lake level a little over the 1,070 feet-above-sea-level stage it is kept at during summer months—it is usually much lower this time of year.

"We are not generating at Buford right now, but later we may be able to generate for an hour. The river reached a high of 12.6 feet at Vinings at noon Monday and has been dropping. If we generate, it won't affect the down-river crest which will have dissipated by that time," Bell said.

Water kept pouring out of the sky over the weekend, bringing such fantastic figures as 13.83 inches of rain for the month of December to Cleveland, up in White County.

Rome had 2.47 inches of rain in 24 hours ending Monday—and some such fall into the Oostanula upstream accounted for the flooding conditions in the northwest Georgia city.

Atlanta's rainfall has already reached nearly 10 inches for the month of December. Normal rainfall for the month is about eight inches.

Housewife Killed by Fire in Bed

A 53-year-old DeKalb County housewife recuperating from a severe cold died Monday night during a mattress fire at the home, police said.

The body of Mrs. Kay Thomas Bland, of 1899 Edinburg Ter., was found in a back bedroom of the home, her clothing in flames, Patrolmen C. H. Hawthorne and R. G. Wallace said.

APPARENTLY COLLAPSED

Her husband, A. O. Bland, and the couple's two sons, were in the front of the home and smelled smoke, patrolmen said. They went to investigate and found the mattress of a rollaway bed on fire.

Mrs. Bland evidently attempted to reach the door and collapsed on the floor, officers said.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

Officers said Mrs. Bland had been under the care of a physician for a cold and had retired early.

The cause of the fire was not determined. Officers said it could have resulted from a lighted cigaret. They said the house suffered little fire damage.

Now the Oldsters Can Wait--- In the Comfort of Highview

In her corner of the bright modern room at Highview Nursing Home, "Queenie" Cooper is sitting this morning in her chair beside her neat, narrow bed, wearing a two-toned blue shoulder cape snuggled around her small shoulders and over her pink print dress.

Doris

Outside it may be drizzling and cold. The water may be cascading down the staring panes of the windows, but here it is warm with the extra heat needed by the thin-blooded aged. Footsteps slick on the smooth terrazo of the halls as visitors arrive for Christmas calls, bringing the commotion of the outside with them, to remind Grandma that she has not yet been forgotten.

A stout figure appears in a doorway, impassive, unsmiling, as if she were braced against emotion. Instantaneously, a withdrawn woman musing in solitude over a Christmas card, leaps to joy. "My baby!" The frail old body falters toward the visitor, her quavering voice blurring with sobs, "Oh, here is My Baby!"

There is pathos in her welcome, a terrible supplication to kinship, to remembrance. For no matter how matronly we become to others, how self sufficient we appear, we are babies as long as our mothers live, no matter where that may be.

At Highview we have done well by our old folks. Fulton County's respectful institution is handsome, planned for safety, comfort and efficient care, and if its sleekness clashes poignantly with the slow bent figures shuffling palely down its corridors, limping on canes or propelling themselves with gnarled hands in rolling chairs, there is no fault to find with that.

There are still waiting lists for others who need its shelter, but Highview is full, everey bed taken, and for those who are in residence, it is a gentle and kindly refuge.

There is no equality in time. The years play great favorites in life. The shoulder cape worn this morning by Mrs. Cooper was one of eight brought to Highview by a gingery Atlanta woman who crocheted them going and coming in frequent commutation train trips to Lexington, Ky., to see her great-grandchild. She does not go merely to see him. She is needed, invited, commanded to appear. The capes were merely pickup work for her spare moments, for she has never learned to be idle. She has a dozen other pressing interests —heading her church circle, sewing for charity, embroidering, doing exquisite petit point, baking bread, making luscious condiments, gardening. Yet she is herself within a month of 80.

Staying young, surely, has something to do with work, with challenge, and perhaps more than we realize with company and sharp, demanding conversation. As long as people can stay away from the stagnant shallows of resignation, they seem to keep their vigor.

Mrs. Cooper herself lived, until a year or so ago, like a self-sufficient little acorn in a little gray cabin hunched against the wind in the curve of Big Creek in North Fulton County. The pale green feedsack curtains of her parlor were starched, her floor was scrubbed white, her three banty chickens chirped around the eroded driveway.

With the audacious courage of feisty, peart little women she had spent six winters alone there after the death of her husband with her shaggy old white dog always at her feet. When she arose from her rocking chair, the Spitz stretched and pattered along, his toenails clicking on the congoleum rug. His teeth were gone, his legs stiffened from old wounds of many rural dogfights, but his growl was ready for any foe.

She left her little one-eyed stove only to be driven to church or to take some leaves from an evergreen shrub to the cemetery.

"I'm just waiting," she used to say, "just waiting."

Then she fractured her leg, and now she waits at Highview. She weeps when she remembers her little house, but it is not often now that it crosses her mind. More and more she thinks only of the present, and the far, far past.

The dictionary defines fashion as "the mode or look accepted by everybody" but modern designers think fashion will have a wide variety of meanings in 1962.

The key word or phrase which will symbolize next year's look is described by leading designers as follows:

Bill Blass of Maurice Rentner, 1961 Coty Award Winner: An effortless elegance.

Helen Rose of California: Slim, slim, slim.

Jean Louis, California designer: Slender movement, feminine grace.

Gustave Tassell, 1961 Coty Award Winner: Personal good taste and a return of dignity.

Roxane of Samuel Winston: Nondicated self-expression in clothes.

Adele Simpson: Lightness and brightness will symbolize the look of 1962.

Larry Aldrich: Gaiety and escapism will be fashion synonyms.

Helen Lee, children's fashion designer: Romantic is the word in everything in 1962 fashion.

The Trip was a Happy Holly-Day

By YOLANDE GWIN

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Church Jr. have been on a holiday in England.

Miss Nancy Downing, right here in Atlanta, has been whipping up some of her famous plum pudding which she gives for Christmas presents.

Mrs. Church, the former Lillian Pedersen of Boston, Mass., has a Scandinavian background.

Miss Downing's background is English.

All these scattered facts, seemingly far apart, are linked by, of all things, a sprig of holly.

"The trip was perfect," reports Mrs. Church. "We went by jet and took in everything we could during our far too brief stay. Since I've been home I have written down everything we did, the places we visited, the people we met. I have had the account copied several times to mail to all the family.

"London was especially thrilling, and I shall always remember the flowers in every window. Of course, we went to all the famous places. Like many tourists, we gaped at the sights and were amazed at the traffic. We drank our share of tea—fell right into the English custom of sipping at 10:30 a.m., 3:30, 5:30 and even later in the day and evening.

"Naturally I wanted to do some shopping for myself and children," she continued. (Son, Robert Church III, and daughter, Mrs. Keith Fitch af Beloit, Wis.) "Books have always held a fascination for all of us. I went to a charming old bookstore which looked like something out of a Dickens story. I found a copy of Milton's "Paradise Lost" dated 1780 for my daughter and a wonderful copy of the "Memories of Christopher Wrenn" for my son who is an architect."

RECIPE CAME TO ATLANTA FROM WALES
Hangs in Miss Downing's Kitchen

"Did you stay in London all the time?" she was asked.

SPECIAL TRIP

"Oh, no, and that's one of the most thrilling parts of the trip. We took a special bus trip—actually it was a tour up into the Shakespeare country. We saw castles, we saw Oxford, and Cambridge. On the tour—there were about 100 of us—we were speeding along and the driver stopped, got out and went to the side of the road picked something we couldn't see, and returned to the bus. He walked right up to me and said, 'Mrs. Church, I want yau to have this little bit of England to take back to Atlanta.' It was a sprig of holly."

Meanwhile back in Atlanta, Miss Nancy Downing was up to her annual Christmas tricks. And lucky are the ones on her preferred list. Some weeks before Christmas she calls her friends and says, "Get your bowl out and leave it at the front door. I'll be by soon."

When all the bowls are collected, Miss Downing has them all lined up in her kitchen ready to fill with plum pudding.

"It is a real English recipe," said Miss Downing the other day, as she was stirring up the pudding. "It has been in the family for ages and I can't remember when we didn't have it for Christmas. My great-grandmother, my grandmother and my mother (the late Mrs. Walter T. Downing who lived in Atlanta) all came from Wales. The recipe was handed down to each daughter.

10-YEAR TRADITION

"I have always loved to make it. I think I started giving the bowls for Christmas presents about 10 years ago. But there is just one stipulation — my friends must furnish the bowls.

"The butcher always looks at one a little funny when I ask for three pounds of good dry beef suet but that's one of the main ingredients." I have Mother's framed recipe she brought from England hanging in my kitchen so I'll be sure to have everything right."

Miss Downing, who steals time from her busy life as a decorator, doesn't even try to compete with Santa Claus on Christmas Eve. She slips by the homes of her friends the day BEFORE Christmas Eve and hangs the bowls on their door knobs.

Among those lucky Atlantans to receive one of her plum pudding bowls is Mrs. Church. At her home the other day she was anticipating the gift with more than the usual joy.

"What could be more perfect!" she exclaimed. "This year I'll have my real English holly to trim the pudding. I can hardly wait, especially since both the pudding and the holly certainly have sentimental attachments for me and whole family."

Mrs. Church seemed so carried away with enthusiasm over the trip and the holly and the plum pudding that it is likely that she just MIGHT tell about it during her forthcoming dramatic reviews of "The Nazarene." Mrs. Church is tapped way in advance and her Christmas reviews and this book. And she should be too. She has been in demand every year since 1938 when she gave her first review.

Wear Pearls First ---Then Fake It!

By JUNE WILSON

There was a time when, for a woman to be seen wearing fake jewelry, was to assure herself the same stigma as that which attached itself to one who dyed her hair, got a divorce, or tossed aside widow's weeds without having to be coaxed out of them.

"We have learned a lot in a little time. Hair coloring now is entirely acceptable if it improves a woman's appearance or makes her feel better: divorce is not invariably tragic, and often even saves lives.

June

Whereas the chick who overdoes her grief only advertises the fact that she's self-centered, selfish, even narcissistic.

But it took the endorsement of a Frenchwoman named Chanel to make the wearing of imitation jewels respectable.

Costume jewelry has a permanent place in every wardrobe and is within the reach of the working girl. But it does not and should not—because it cannot—obliterate the realm of genuine jewels and the wish for them that slumbers in a woman's heart, no matter how many chests she requires to house her collection of costume pieces.

There are basic items in the jewelry wardrobe, just as the basic business letter is composed of certain essential components. How simple or how complex either may become depends, of course, on what you have to say!

The rock-bottom basic jewelry wardrobe includes two pairs of earrings, one life-size, important pin carefully chosen to become your "trademark," and a single necklace.

You buy earrings first. After that, each piece of genuine jewelry leads to another in much the same way that it becomes easier to save money once you get the hang of it. It is, you might say, almost the same thing!

For daytime earrings choose pearls, or pearls and gold. For evening, what else but diamonds? If you must double up, make your first real earrings pearl - and - diamond, but it's better to save up for diamonds and buy emerald or ruby earrings set in gold for daytime meanwhile.

The necklace? But pearls! If you can't swing the two or three-strand necklace of cultured pearls, settle for a single strand choker of uniform, 11-millimeter pearls. It will instantly become your constant companion.

The fringe benefit that goes with possession of genuine jewelry is that you create a reputation for savvy when it comes to the rocks. And once this happens, you may even wear a $1.50 'genuine imitation' of the Hope diamond and nobody . . . but NOBODY . . . will dare to ask if it's 'real'!

Ask Amy

Is Their Marriage Legal?

DEAR AMY LARKIN: Several years ago we were married in another state under assumed names. Ours has been a good marriage.

Please tell us how to make it legal without too much public exposure.—WORRIED

It may be that you have a valid common-law marriage, which is recognized as legal in Georgia. But you should take out a new license and have another ceremony. Unless you make it a matter of public record there could be all sorts of court entanglements in the future.

DEAR AMY LARKIN: for 20-odd years my husband's brother has lived with us.

Until about three years ago he worked and made almost as much as my husband John, but very seldom paid any board. He had an accident on his job and was laid off, and due to his health was not able to get other work. At my husband's insistence, he filed for Social Security Disability pay and started drawing it. But he never offers a dime of board.

I work in a garment factory and my husband and I are both within five years of retirement. Sometimes it seems we won't make it. Neither of us is physically able.

Yet this brother never brings in a steak or even a stick of candy. He does water the grass, take out garbage and make his bed. But I do all his laundry and cooking. He goes on weekend visits to his sister's and spends his money on her children but never stays with her for a week to give me a rest.

I think he should pay a small amount each month or divide his time with his other brother and sister. My husband refuses to say anything, but does agree that I'm right. I've hinted to the brother about expenses but that did not help. What should I do?—TIRED

You have every right to ask him to pay his share of the expenses or get out. Refuse to do his clothes, and ask him to help more with the cleaning and cooking — or leave. If you're good enough to take this brother in, you deserve more consideration.

DEAR AMY LARKIN: The girl's drill team is having a band concert the same night another school in Atlanta is having a Christmas dance.

Drill-Team is one of my courses. The roll will be called and I've already missed enough things to almost fail. But this dance is real big-deal. I'll just die if I miss it.

What would you do?—WORRIED WANDA

I'd drill.

DEAR AMY LARKIN: I would like the address of the Ku Klux Klan at Douglasville, Ga., please. Thank you.—A READER.

I don't know it.

New ATO House at Tech Is a Decorator's Delight!

By YOLANDE GWIN

The ATO house at Georgia Tech is far from being a ramblin' wreck.

In fact it is an architectural plumb and a decorator's delight.

The house—located on Fourth Street—is a massive English structure of old brick with a stone trim. A new wing has just been added plus several antique accessories and furnishings which give the entire home a look of well planned elegance and charm.

One of the most interesting features is the excellent use of some antique-colored engravings of ancient Roman ruins which came from the collection of Walter Barnwell.

These architectural masterpieces lend emphasis to the living room because of Tech's highly rated architectural school.

In this same theme in the room there is a beautiful colored etching of the Georgia Tech Quadrangle done in 1900. It hangs between triple windows which have linen draperies of an ancient Persian design. Walls are golden beige. They pick up the colors in the beige, brown and gold wall-to-wall carpet.

A reproduction of an old hand-carved Spanish chest is used to center one side wall and is flanked on one side by furniture groupings including tables with lamps of bronze and brass with neutral shades. Over the chest there is an old Anelut oil painting which was presented the chapter by members of the Tech Mothers Club.

ITALIAN LAVABO

An English carved stone fireplace is topped with a reproduction of an Italian Lavabo in red tile.

The new wing is used as a library and is dramatic in its decorative color scheme of blue and green. There is a wall-to-wall carpet of a maresque design in uncut pile in blending shades of blue and green. Walls are light blue and draperies and runners are neutral linen with a contemporary tecturous design printed in blues and greens.

One entire wall contains portrait pictures of the three founders of the fraternity, while one end of the room has ceiling to floor shelves holding trophies won by members of the fraternity.

In addition to the library in the new wing, this section of the house contains four bedrooms on the third floor, three on the fourth and a lounge and recreation room on the lower floor.

The dining room wall is covered in a reproduction of English wall paper found in an old New England house. Color tones are maple, olive, dandelion greens and pomegranate reds. Small panel shutters at all the windows are dark olive green to blend with the wallpaper.

HOUSE MOTHER'S ROOM

Another new area to the house is the suite for the house mother, Mrs. Anne Scott and the powder room for feminine guests. Mrs. Scott's living room is done in shades of blue, copper reds and beige. It contains a hide-a-bed for guests, a maple desk and built-in bookshelves. Her bedroom is in pink and green with maple furnishings.

The new edition to the house has been a long cherished dream of members of the Beta Iota chapter. The brothers—all prominent alumni—who handled the arrangements were Jules Gray, Jiroud and Posey Jones (their late father, Julian Jones was a former chief of Province I and of the high council of the fraternity), Johnnie Vann, former Worthy Grand Chief and Holcome Green, former chief of Province I.

Robertsons to Entertain on Boxing Day

In celebration of Boxing Day, a national holiday in England, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Robertson will entertain at their annual buffet supper on Dec. 26 at their home in Smyrna. Mr. Robertson is the distinguished British Information Officer for the Southeast.

By KATHRYN GRAYBURN
Constitution Society Editor

Several perplexed friends of the hosts who are invited to the party asked if they were supposed to bring boxing gloves to the affair. The Robertsons explained that Boxing Day, traditionally celebrated on Dec. 26 in England, was so named because of an old custom when the Lord and Lady of the Manor distributed gifts and food in boxes to their tenants and renters.

Nowadays, gifts, usually small sums of money, are given to the tradesmen in England.

According to Mr. Robertson, Christmas Day in England is a family festival following church services. In contrast, Boxing Day is a gay day, when theaters open to feature delightful pantomines. Parties and dances enliven the national holiday.

The Robertsons will also be hosts at a cocktail party Friday evening, Dec. 22, assembling many members of the social contingent.

IT IS indeed a Merry Christmas for the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra which has just received a gift of eleven thousand dollars netted from the recent Symphony Soiree held at the Piedmont Driving Club.

A bouquet to the Special projects group of the Womens' Committee of the Symphony Guild (both junior and senior groups) for giving both a fabulous and a profitable party.

NINTH GRADER to Mother after inviting her to the Home Economics tea at school: "I want you to come, Mother. But don't eat any of the brownies."

"Well, why not?" inquired her Mother.

"Because Patricia sneezed on the nuts for them."

MR. AND MRS. ENRICO LEIDE will spend Christmas in Hawaii. They will fly to Honolulu today, where Mr. Leide will guest-conduct the Honolulu Symphony.

They will return Dec. 29 before going to New York, where Mr. Leide will continue conducting for the U.N. and the City of New York.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT G. PRUITT are vacationing at Nassau, Bahamas.

AMONG Christmas visitors will be Mr. and Mrs. William C. Lewis of Columbus, who arrive Saturday to be with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Walker on Winall-Down Road.

MRS. ROBERT EMMETT MITCHELL will leave Thursday to spend Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Allen R. Potts and family in Richmond, Va.

Before returning home she will also be the guest of Mrs. J. W. Enochs Sr., in Hopewell, Va.

MRS. GEORGE W. TUMLIN is recuperating at the home of her grandson, Dr. Luther C. Rollins, 3015 Mornington Dr., NW, after spending some time at Piedmont Hospital with a broken hip.

JEAN ALLEN will leave Dec. 26 for Smithfield, N.C., to visit Anne Cheatham and her parents, the James H. Cheathams.

RHETT BAIRD is missing a few of the holiday debutante parties this week because she will not arrive home until Friday. The attractive debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Neal Baird, who attends Pine Manor Junior College in Wellesley, Mass., is visiting a New York deb, Judy Schiffer.

Miss Baird

Rhett will look Christmasy in a red velvet gown at Judy's debut party Thursday evening in the metropolis.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN B. HALE entertained at their annual Christmas cocktail party at their home on Northcliffe Drive. Visitors receiving a warm welcome were Mr. and Mrs. Joel Winston of New York and Miami.

Million-Dollar Diet

NEW YORK (UPI)—Current retail sales of low-calorie diet drinks are estimated at $145 million, compared with $100 million a year ago. Stiff competition is also bringing down the prices of many of the drink brands.

UDC Chapter To Entertain

The Soldiers' Home committee of the Alfred Holt Colquitt Chapter, UDC, will present women residents of the Home with gifts from the members on Sunday, Dec. 24, between the hours of 2 and 4 p.m. Mrs. G. J. McCurry and Miss Lillian Henderson are in charge of the affair.

Mrs. Olin S. Cofee, president of the Georgia Division, UDC, will be a special guest. Other special guests will include Dr. and Mrs. James P. Westberry. The program will be highlighted by the playing of a recording of the Clarkston Baptist Church Cantata.

Pocket Junk Starts His Library

NEW YORK (WNS)—Dr. Joseph Broadman, who has one of the world's largest libraries of news clips on international affairs, credits his female relatives for the idea.

"When I started my hobby," he said. "My pockets were always bulging with clippings. I'd fish for change or a match and a dozen would flutter around.

"My wife and other relatives insisted this was no way for a young physician to look, so I bought a scrapbook. But it took six scrapbooks to accommodate just the clips in my various coat and suit pockets."

The library, in storage and looking for a home, now consists of thousands of neatly indexed items.

Icy Wave Kills 42; Floods Batter Dixie

By United Press International

Isolating snows piled high in Rocky Mountain areas, a fresh cold wave cut through the Plains states and rising floodwaters in the South drove more than 1,600 persons from their homes in Alabama, Mississippi and Tennessee.

Freezing drizzle iced roads and walks in New England and more snow headed for parts of the Midwest. Hazardous driving warnings were issued in at least 10 states.

Winter's new assault took a steadily climbing toll of lives. The number of weather-attributed deaths since Saturday rose to at least 45.

Mountainous snowdrifts forced the use of air drops of food and hay to the Navajo Indian reservation in northern Arizona. Up to 24 inches of snow clogged mountain passes in Montana.

In the South, continuous rains caused serious flooding in areas of Alabama, Mississippi and Tennessee. Civil Defense authorities estimated that 700 of more than 1,600 persons who were forced to evacuate low-lying areas were Mississippi residents.

The Red Cross opened a public shelter for 300 homeless persons in the Hinds-Rankin County area east of Jackson, Miss., and Gov. Ross Barnett ordered inmates of the state prison to Parchman to start sandbagging operations on the Pearl River.

Large numbers of livestock were moved to higher ground along Alabama streams, and rampaging mountain streams forced schools to close in Sevier County, Tennessee. Seven inches of water hit some downtown stores in Sevierville, on the edge of Great Smoky Mountain National Park.

PRACTICE STANDING UNDER THE MISTLETOE

Georgia Girls Like All That Mistletoe

By FRANK VEALE JR.

A pretty girl, a merry Christmas and a sprig of mistletoe . . . They go together like Santa and Rudolph, his red-nosed reindeer.

Georgia girlis gravitate toward native Georgia mistletoe, says George Souter at the state Farmers Market. And he should know; Souter has been selling Christmas trees, holly and mistletoe until he's the acknowledged mistletoe expert at the market.

Small bunches of mistletoe are selling for 25 cents to 50 cents, with bushel baskets going for $5 to $6.

Georgians are hauling it in from south Georgia in pickup trucks to the Atlanta market where most of it is sold.

The mistletoe this year is coming from Newnan, McRae, Cordele, Americus and Butler, Souter says. Most of the Georgia mistletoe grows on the tips of oak tree branches. To obtain it, sometimes the whole branch is sawed off. Mistletoe is a hardy plant; it survives the year round and is difficult to kill without killing the tree.

Women purchase most of the mistletoe, and some men laughingly buy it "for their wives," Souter said. And downtown it is marketed for about 25-to-50 cents a sprig for girls to wear on their coats and dresses.

About 12 pickup truck loads would cover the harvest being sold here this year, Souter reported. And "Georgia has the very best mistletoe in the world."

The legends of mistletoe stretch back into antiquity. The Druids believed it was a potent love potion, and Pliny swore in a pre-Hippocrates oath that it was an excellent cure for sterility and a remedy for poison.

The Vikings believed mistletoe provided the arrow with which Balder, the sun god, was slain by the blind god, Hoder.

Nowadays, the legend goes something like this: If a girl is kissed beneath the mistletoe during Christmas, she will marry within the year.

Aldermen Ask Revised Election Law

The Board of Aldermen urged Fulton and DeKalb legislators Monday night to change local election laws.

The proposal offered by Alderman Ed A. Gilliam would "simplify, make more reasonable and realistic" laws now on the books which resulted in three trips to elect a mayor and 26 other officials.

ABOLISH PRIMARY

Among various proposals recently advanced is one that would do away with Atlanta's nonpartisan primary, relying on the general election to fill elective offices.

Aldermen also:

1. Sent to the finance committee a proposal to permit Mayor Hartsfield to use his city-owned car and Police Lt. Charlie Cook, his driver, until the 1962 session of the Georgia legislature adjourns. Hartsfield will be mayor emeritus and will draw pensions totaling $8,080 a year. Alderman Jesse Draper offered the proposal.

NEW EMPLOYES

2. Adopted measures adding new employes and making reclassifications costing around $300,000 a year beginning next January.

3. Sent to the police committee for further study a proposal to permit Joseph Renzler to file a petition to transfer a liquor store from 486 Decatur St., SE, to 650 Decatur St. without waiting a full year from the time the original request was turned down. Under existing law, a petition affecting a site is dead for a year from the time it is adversed.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United Nations' steering committee recommended Monday that the General Assembly recess its current session Wednesday until Jan. 15.

U.S. Okays Renewal Plan Here

Official Praises 'Sure-Fire' Setup

Federal officials Monday approved the city's workable plan for the multi-million dollar urban renewal program and praised the local effort.

Walter E. Keyes, regional administrator for the Housing and Home Finance Agency, said the blueprint for the program is a "sure-fire plan of action."

The workable program must be sanctioned annually by participating federal agencies.

While Keyes made no pointed criticism, he did ask whether enforcement inspectors are not overworked, and suggested that more inspectors might be provided by increasing building permit fees. He also commented on the apparent lack of citizen participation.

As I See It

TV's 'Wasteland' Is Greener Now

By PAUL JONES

Despite all the hurrah raised at the Washington level about television's alleged "wasteland," this season must be regarded as one of the broadcast industry's best in several years.

Jones

Indicative of the manner in which programming has been accepted this year is the small number of program changes being contemplated.

At this point the smallest number of cancellations and substitutions in at least eight years is being readied. And at least one show which was taken out of the ABC-TV lineup is being returned. That show is Calvin and the Colonel, the animated cartoon program which features the voice of Freeman Gosden and Charles Correll, the "voices" of Amos and Andy.

Significant is the fact that most changes being contemplated will affect the Sunday schedule, filling the void left by the professional football games, which were offered on all three networks. These changes do not reflect any lack of interest on the part of the audience but rather the conclusion of seasonal programming.

Otherwise, changes in program schedules will be few, with one of the biggest changes affecting the Roaring 20s, a big favorite of teen-age viewers.

The Roaring 20s will leave the air on Jan. 20. On the following Saturday, Calvin and the Colonel and a new situation comedy, Room for One More, starring Andrew Duggan and Peggy McKay, will move into the 7:30-8:30 p.m. slot now occupied the Roaring 20s.

SPORTS PROGRAMS will be used by all stations here to fill the time formerly occupied by the professional gridiron contests.

Wonderful World of Golf, a CBS-TV sports feature, will be presented on Channel 2 each Sunday from 4 to 5 p.m. beginning Jan. 7. Old movies will be inserted in the 1 to 3 p.m. slot.

The Sunday Sports Spectacular likely will be used by Channel 5 to bolster its Sunday schedule. This 90-minute program has met with the favor of viewing audiences throughout the country and will be offered by CBS-TV starting on Jan. 11. Here again this programming replaced professional football.

Channel 11 will offer Wide World of Sports, another 90-minute program devoted to the world of athletics, starting on Sunday, Jan. 14. This show will begin each Sunday at 5 p.m. Old movies will be offered in the 3:30-5 p.m. slot on Sundays beginning on that date.

SOME MINOR CHANGES will be brought about by all stations.

Channel 2 and NBC-TV are canceling From These Roots, an old-time soap opera and substituting another daytime drama, Our Five Daughters. This change will be made on Jan. 2.

The Jan Murray program will be cut short by five minutes each day beginning Jan. 2 to make way for a five-minute newscast at 2:25 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Frank McGee's Here and Now is being dropped on Jan. 12 in favor of Chet Huntley Reporting.

And Mr. Wizard takes over the 12 p.m. slot on Saturdays, coming in "live" for the first time.

NEW ON CHANNEL 5 will be a quiz show entitled Password and the Groucho Marx game program, both of which make their debuts on Jan. 11. The title of Mrs. G. Goes to College will be changed to the Gertrude Berg Show, effective Jan. 11.

ABC-TV IS DROPPING Number, Please, a daytime quiz show, replacing it with the Jane Wyman Drama series, on Jan. 2. Miss Wyman will be hostess and star of the program, appearing with such personalities as Bette Davis, Ralph Bellamy, Donna Reed in plays written and directed by such men as Rod Sterling and John Ford. The Wyman program will be offered at 2 p.m. each day, Monday through Friday.

Jane Wyman

EXCEPT FOR THE Steve Allen Show, the status of which is very much up in the air, these are the only major changes now planned.

It appears that this has been and will continue to be one of the most successful seasons in a long, long time.

TV PREVIEW

Garry and Friends Hit Peak In Variety for the Holidays

By THE TV SCOUT

BEST BET — From now through X-day, there'll be Christmas programs on every night. But it's doubtful if any will top Tuesday's Garry Moore Show for sheer variety of Christmas sentiment. This has everything from comedy to carols. And it has two great talents, Julie Andrews and Gwen Verdon, joining with the home team talents—Garry, Carol Burnett and Durward Kirby. Highlights: Miss Verdon dancing to "The Beautiful Trees of Christmas"; Garry as Santa Claus being quizzed by Kirby as an Internal Revenue agent; Miss Andrews singing "My Favorite Things"; Julie, Gwen and Carol singing and dancing while in a fancy gym; Garry reading excerpts from children's letters to Santa; Carol and Kirby in a spoof of "The Gift of the Magi"; The George Becker Singers doing "Little Drummer Boy"; Marion Lorne reciting "A Christmas Wish"; and the cast singing carols in Spanish, French, German, Italian and English, winding up with "Silent Night." 10-11 (Ch. 5).

WHO'S THE DOLL, FREDDIE?
Red Skelton and Cara Williams in Comedy Skit

8-8:30 (Ch. 5)—As usual, The Dick Van Dyke Show takes a tired old situation comedy plot and, through the brightness of the dialogue, makes it seem new. The situation: Mary Tyler Moore, as Dick's wife, accuses him and his co-workers of treating Sally (Rose Marie) like a boy. So Dick starts behaving chivalrously and, naturally, everybody thinks he has fallen for her. Helping things along are Barbara Perry, as the exceptionally stupid Pickles, and Paul Tripp as Sally's date. Good comedy here.

8:30-9:30 (Ch. 11)—The men of The New Breed are assigned to probe the death of a girl shot by her roommate. The killer's story is that the victim had been trying suicide, because a doctor told her she had bone cancer. The doctor turns out to be a quack and most of the investigation is designed to put him out of business. They are aided in this campaign by the doctor's alcoholic nurse, Gloria Grahame. Nothing very surprising in this one.

9-9:30 (Ch. 5)—The Red Skelton Show features Red in a Christmas pantomime. This is new—it is not the one he has featured for the past few years. In this one, he's Freddie the Freeloader who dreams that a doll comes to life and it does. He and the humanized doll (Cara Williams) then proceed on a series of Christmas adventures—skating, visiting Santa Claus, being kind to children. If you like the type, you'll like the show.

9-10 (Ch. 2)—The Dick Powell Show features an old-fashioned whodunit but it all gets a bit confusing. Red herrings are scattered all through the script and you'll spend most of your time suspecting people. Eva Gabor is the one the police believe killed the phony doctor. But she has lost her memory, so inspector Michael Rennie and doctor George Macready figure they can shock her by parading all the witnesses into her hospital room. And in they parade, kicking off a series of flashback scenes which bewilders everyone, including the poor viewers at home.

10-11 (Ch. 11)—For some unaccountable reason, Alcoa Premiere has seen fit to dramatize the assassination of Archduke Franz Ferdinand in Sarajevo in 1914, the event which triggered World War I. It has its interesting moments—particularly during the training of the assassin, Andrew Prine, and in the disclosure of the democratic tendencies of the victim, Robert Loggia—but it has no particular purpose at this time. It was written by David Karp, who wrote "The Day Stalin Died"; he generally stuck to facts but he invented a love interest for the assassin.

The Rev. Harry Tisdale, Holy Trinity Episcopal Church, Decatur.
The Rev. Allison Williams, Trinity Presbyterian Church.
The Rev. Emmet Floyd, Clairmont Hills Baptist Church.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

'BUSINESS LAB'
HELP JOE'S
SCHOOL WORK

IN SCHOOL, Joe had always liked his lab courses. Naturally he listens to the teacher's lectures, but what he enjoys most is learning for himself by doing. Now that he has become a newspaperboy, he has discovered another good "lab course."
HAVING a business of his own — which requires the keeping of accounts, and the banking of profits—has been of practical help in math. His ability to meet and talk with people has made him the top public speaker in his classes.
WHAT'S more, through this "business lab" he has learned so well the importance of being punctual that he wasn't tardy for a single class last year.

Syphilis Is Easier to Cure in Early Stages

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Where and how did syphilis begin? An encyclopedia explains it was taken to Europe in 1493 by the earliest transatlantic mariners. Another question: Can syphilis develop in a couple who has never had contact with a person who has had it?—Mrs. M. J. B. and friends.

It would be interesting to know the origin of the disease; however, the question is like wondering how the bison happened to grow in North America, the kangaroo in Australia and polar bears in the arctic.

Syphilis is caused by a germ which is a form of life, just as a kangaroo is. Where and how they all started, nobody knows. Presumably it has taken many thousands or millions of years — and kangaroos gradually evolved in Australia because conditions encouraged crittters with their type of anatomy.

So, too, germs evolved from somewhere. Where? I don't know. But the syphilis germ, unlike the kangaroo, seems to thrive in any climate. It is worldwide.

True, there was an epidemic of syphilis not long after Columbus discovered America, and it may be that the germ evolved somewhere in the areas Columbus visited.

If you'll delve deeper, you'll find that others believe the disease existed in Europe before then, but was confused with, or went under the name of leprosy. I don't know which theory is correct.

But it is a prevalent and dangerous disease. It can be eradicated in an individual with antibiotic drugs—but only if the cases are recognized and drugs are used and sources of infection traced down.

Around the end of World War II the number of cases was very high. Modern drugs then caused a powerful and encouraging decline in the disease. And after some years, apparently, people began to get careless because they "knew it could be cured." Right now syphilis is on a startlingly large upswing. I shall do all I can to emphasize the fact that promiscuity spreads the disease — but that drugs can cure it, particularly in its early stages.

There are innocent ways of coming in contact with the germ — but they are rare. Acquiring the disease raised the same situation which judges have long since learned to dismiss with the verdict of "not guilty — but don't do it again."

I wonder if the lady who wears sensible shoes and still has bunions might be wearing stockings that are too small? —J. D. S.

Could be.

Dr. Molner regrets that due to the tremendous volume received, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Ted Simmons

(Sports Editor Jesse Outlar is on Vacation)

Bagels, Bobby and Bear

Musings, while considering professional football's newest offense—the weekend pass.

You've probably heard the one about the two men from Mars who made a trip to earth and landed in the middle of Manhattan, right in front of a Kosher delicatessen.

Ted Simmons

Having worked up an appetite en route, they went inside and pointed to a tray of freshly baked rolls.

"Bagels," said the sales-minded owner, nonplussed by the antennaes protruding from the green creatures' heads. Whereby one of the visitors picked one up and started to munch.

"Good?" asked the owner. "Crazy," said the Martian, turning to his friend. "Man, we oughta geta a dozen. I bet they'd be great with lox."

The startled shopkeeper must have looked as shocked as did a mid-season visitor to Georgia Tech's practice field some weeks ago. It was his first look at a Bobby Dodd practice. He caught the Jackets on a Wednesday, when most teams do their rough work.

Surveying the spirited but hardly bruising activity, our friend reminded one of Albert Westphal just after he'd made the acquainatnce of one Sonny Liston. "I'm amazed," he said. "I'd heard about Dodd's letting his teams play volley ball, and never doing rough work during the season. But somehow I couldn't believe it."

Which prompted a more frequent Rose Bowl Field visitor to inquire into Dodd's method of coaching; particularly as to where he had acquired it. Here's a guy who played under one of the game's sternest taskmasters, Tennessee's Gen. Bob Neyland, and served his coaching apprenticeship under another—Tech's Bill Alexander. Where in these experiences did he dig up his "football can be fun" theory?

—Why Make Change When You're Winning?

"Well," said Dodd, "I'd been fooling around with football since I was 10 years old, and I already had my own ideas about how the game ought to be played, and coached. But I guess part of it came out of necessity.

"When I took over as head coach in 1945 the war was just over and there weren't very many football players back from service yet. Of the ones that were back, we didn't have many.

"We had so few, in fact, that I was scared to scrimmage after the season started. If I'd gotten anybody hurt, I wouldn't have been able to put a team on the field Saturday. But, I told them we didn't have to work hard during the week; we would do all right if we just stayed sharp and then played as hard as we could when we went into a game.

"And I convinced them. They believed me and did what I told them, and we went on that season to win four games, when we probably shouldn't have won any.

"That kind of convinced me we could win without beating each other to death in practice and maybe getting people hurt. . . . I always hated to see anyone hurt in practice. You have to expect injuries in a game, but hurting someone in practice is such a waste; it's not fair to the boy.

"Anyway, the next season we were 8-2, and the next one 9-1, and so on, so I haven't seen much sense in changing. Our teams hit as hard as anybody."

Dodd's theory was brazenly illustrated in the first game of this season. Halfback Chick Graning suffered a shoulder bruise in the opening days of practice, and was withheld from all contact leading up to Southern Cal. "With no rough work at all to get ready, don't you think Graning might lose his poise the first couple of times he gets wracked up in the game?" Dodd was asked.

"Chick's a five-year man and he's in good shape," he replied. "He'll be all right." And he was, playing an outstanding role in Tech's 27-7 victory.

—Whatever It Takes, Bryant Has It

Few coaches would risk that. Alabama's Bear Bryant, for example—and this is a comparison of two great coaches' methods, nothing else; honest injun—Bryant has a practice drill in which the ball is kicked to the deep back, who is then required to return it into the teeth of an assault by 11 teammates. None of the 11 can tackle the ball carrier, but all are required to strike him a good blow, or else take a turn as ball carrier themselves.

"What has that poor boy done to deserve this," someone once asked the Bear. "Oh, nothing," said Bryant. "This is just a drill designed to train the backs not to fumble a kickoff or punt when all those big boys on the other team are bearing down on him."

Obviously, it is successful. You don't win the national championship with unsuccessful drills. It takes more than that, of course, and whatever more it takes, the Bear seems to have that too.

In some ways, Bryant reminds me of the late Sunny Jim Tatum, a fellow who didn't always win, but who always made good newspaper copy. He could also wield a needle magnificently.

Once at a North Carolina press conference Big Jim happened to remark that he and Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma were the only active big time coaches in football who had not been investigated by the NCAA. "What about Bill Murray at Duke," someone asked. To which Tatum replied, "I said Big Time coaches." A remark not designed to keep peace in the Big Four family.

Speaking of keeping peace in the family, hasn't the New York Giants' Allie Sherman done a fine job this season with his dual quarterbacks, Charlie Conerly and Y. A. Tittle? Despite reports that Tittle and Conerly are cool toward each other, Bill Wallace of the New York Herald Tribune says the two were together with their wives at the Peppermint Lounge a couple of weeks ago.

Twisting, no doubt. And what ever happened to the Bunny Hop?

Jackets Selling 2,000 More Gator Tickets

Georgia Tech, which sold its allotment of Gator Bowl tickets, still has some 2,000 ducats available for the Dec. 30 game against Penn State in Jacksonville.

These tickets, a return shipment from Penn State, are available over the counter at the Tech ticket office at $6 apiece.

Athletic business manager Bob Askew said that tickets could be bought in lots of any size while the supply lasts.

Oglethorpe, Eagles Advance to Finals

Petrels Roll To 103-70 Win

By JACK WILLIAMS

Oglethorpe's Stormy Petrels, never before so daring, buried Mississippi College under an avalanche of layups, 103-70, Monday night and joined unbeaten Carson-Newman in the finals of the Oglethorpe Invitational.

A crowd of 2,000 at the University Field House saw Carson-Newman trip Davidson College, 57-56, in the first game on the clutch shooting of Jerald Ellington and two last-minute free throws by Chris Jones.

Nothing that happened in that opener, however—exciting as it was—could match the thunderous performance of the Petrels who proved they can play racehorse basketball when the occasion demands.

Led by Jay Rowland's 24-point outburst, Oglethorpe had five men in the double figure scoring column, fired an amazing shooting percentage of 58.8, and almost chased the Missippians back to the Land of the Choctaws.

The opening night results set up what should be an exciting championship match Tuesday. Coach Garland Pinholster's Petrels and the short, sharpshooting Eagles from Jefferson City, Tenn., clash at 9 p.m. Mississippi College and Davidson meet in the consolation game at 7 p.m.

The Carson-Newman—Davidson battle produced a hot individual scoring duel between the Eagles' Ellington and the Wildcats' Bill Jarman. Ellington won, 28-24.

With the score tied at 51-all and 3:30 left, it was Ellington, a 6-4 forward from Symsonia, Ky., who kept the Eagles roaring to-

Bulldogs Seek Second Win In Savannah League Opener

By TED SIMMONS

Georgia and Florida play for the 1961 Southeastern Conference basketball championship in a neutral court game at Savannah Tuesday night.

It's the only league game until January in the SEC, so the winner will be top dog at least for the rest of this year.

Georgia, 1-1 for the season, has been idle since it surprised Tech, 70-67, at the Dome 10 days ago. The Bulldogs lost their opener to Georgia Southern, 74-64.

Florida, 2-3 to date, has been surprising in its last two appearances. The Gators upset highly-regarded Wake Forest, 71-65, but Saturday night were upset themselves by Miami, 66-61.

The other losses were to Duke, 80-58, and Florida State, 85-71. Both have strong clubs. The other victory was over Rice, 70-67.

Shockers Nip Cincy String

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Lanny Van Eman hit a 15-foot jump shot with three seconds left to give the Wichita Shockers a 52-51 basketball victory over Cincinnati Monday night, breaking the Bearcats' 27-game winning streak, longest in current collegiate circles.

Cincinnati's victory string extended into last year. The Bearcats were 5-0 for this season going into Monday night's game.

Van Eman, whose wife gave birth to their first child Sunday morning, was a cool operator on the floor. He led the Shockers with 19 points.

'Bulldog' Turner New Titan Coach

NEW YORK (AP) — Clyde (Bulldog) Turner, for many years an all-pro center with the Chicago Bears, became the new head football coach of the New York Titans Monday. He succeeds Sammy Baugh, who has been feuding openly with owner Harry Wismer.

Wismer, who made the announcement, said Baugh, whose $20,000-a-year contract had another year to run, would remain on the payroll as a consultant.

Turner signed for two years at $20,000 a year and received assurances he would have full power in assembling a representative team in the American Football League, Wismer said.

"I am enthusiastic over this chance to get back in coaching and I have the fullest confidence in the new American League," the 280-pound new coach of the Titans said.

Turner, 42, a onetime star at Hardin-Simmons College, has been out of coaching for the last three years.

Turner was the first draft choice of the Bears in 1940 and he played 13 seasons with the National Football League club, eight times being named on the all-pro team. He served as an aide to George Halas, coach of the Bears, from 1953 through 1958.

Wismer and Baugh have been throwing verbal darts at each other for most of the two years of their association with the AFL team.

Minnesota Reaches Rose Bowl Scene

Gophers Given Big Welcome; Warmath Fears UCLA's Size

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Minnesota's Golden Gophers arrived to a red carpet welcome Monday and the sun even broke through to greet the Rose Bowl-bound Big Ten representatives.

The 47-man squad, led by Coach Murray Warmath, set down in their chartered plane at nearby Burbank after an uneventful flight from Minneapolis.

The coach was delighted with the temperature in the mid-60s here. "It was 15 when we left Minneapolis," he said.

Several hundred Gopher admirers were at the airport, plus the entire Tournament of Roses committee and Athletic Director Wilbur Johns of the host school, Big Five champion UCLA.

"We are happy to be back and we hope the score board will look a little different from a year ago," Warmath said with a faint smile. He referred to Minnesota's 17-7 loss to the Washington Huskies.

What does he fear most about UCLA?

"Their depth and their size. They're big," Warmath replied.

There was the usual reception at the Huntington-Sheraton Hotel, headquarters for the visiting team. It was held this year at poolside, as the weather turned even brighter for the occasion.

Judge H. Burton Noble, president of the Tournament of Roses, and Lathrop K. Leishman, chairman of the tournament football committee, formally welcomed the team.

"We feel very honored and grateful to be back," Warmath said, before introducing the players individually.

In midafternoon the squad loosened up and posed for news cameramen at East Los Angeles State College. Tuesday the twice-daily grind will begin. Warmath said the Gophers have had but four practice sessions—all indoors—since the Wisconsin game Nov. 25.

The coach said he planned no radical departure from the training schedule employed on their last trip to California.

Just-Arriving Minnesotans Frolic Here, Later Had First Workout

SW's Stovall Is 'Finished' With Speeches

Buddy Stovall, one of Southwest High School's finest all-around athletes, will pass up speaking engagements for a while. Maybe for good.

Here's why: The quarterback-captain of Bob Greer's 3-AAA West football champions made one of the keynote speeches at the team's banquet Friday night, then wound up in Crawford Long Hospital with appendicitis Saturday morning.

Stovall, a returning letterman on the Wolves' basketball team, will miss better than three weeks duty.—ATKINSON.

Three Bama Ends Saddled With Flu

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—Three second-string ends were stricken with flu and hospitalized Monday as the Alabama Crimson Tide jogged on a soggy field for 45 minutes before calling it quits.

In the University infirmary are Richard Williams and Mike Hopper and Red Wilkins. Their illness follows a virus attack on 19 Alabama players a week ago. All but the three new cases were back on the field Monday.

Alabama, No. 1 on the Associated Press final football poll, is preparing to meet Arkansas in the sugar bowl at New Orleans Jan. 1.

Heavy rains have hampered the Tide's preparations for a week, and all the players did Monday was warm up in sweat clothes. The workout was held under a misty overcast.

Decatur Grid Coach Charlie Hall Quits

External Pressure Cited; Case Heads 'Wanted' List

By PAUL ATKINSON

Charlie Hall, Decatur High School football coach, Tuesday resigned effective June 9, and immediately the names of Georgia captain Pese Case, Decatur assistant Butch Lee and R. E. Lee coach Jim Cavan were injected into the list of possible successors.

Hall's Decatur teams posted a modest 27-25 record for five seasons, but included was a North Georgia Class AAA championship in 1958. He also won the State Class AAA basketball championship in 1957.

In a prepared statement, Hall said, "Having worked eight years at Decatur, I have felt that at any time I cannot be an asset to the school, it's time to make a change.

"Due to external pressures, I will resign effective June 9. My plans for the future are undecided, but I certainly hope to stay in the field of education, preferably coaching."

It's known that Case, a 1957 graduate of Decatur, is high on the list of prospects, though he's just graduating from Georgia. However, he has signed a 1962 contract with the Philadelphia Eagles for a five-figure sum and its doubtful Case's price could be met.

So that leaves Lee and Cavan. Lee was elevated to the No. 1 assistant's post when Hall took over, succeeding Frank Jones. Lee has been very popular with the football players and apparently he has the inside track.

Cavan, a Decatur native, coached the R. E. Lee Rebels to the North Georgia Class AAA title, winning 11 games and losing two.

Hall came to Decatur with a glittering record, having coached high school football teams to 48-8-4 records at such stations as Hawthorne, Nev., Mt. Airy, N.C., and Belle Glade, Fla. His Decatur teams in basketball went 81-29.

Bulldogs, Gators Open SEC Season

Georgia has an edge over Florida in height.

Lawson has Carlton Gill, 6-5, Harold Morris, 6-7, and Chuck Adamek, 6-5, on the front line. Among them they've accounted for 73 rebounds in two games, 27 for Gill, 22 for Morris and 24 for Adamek.

LARRY CRAWFORD

. . . Steady Forward

Along with captain Allan Johnson, the little senior guard, they've also been productive scorers. Gill shot 23 points against Southern. Morris had 15, Gill 13 to go with Johnson's 25 points against Tech. Adamek's best showing was against Southern, when he hit 11.

Joey Miller, a 6-1 senior guard, joins those four in the Bulldog starting lineup, replacing injured senior Frank Clark.

The Gators depend for a good bit of their scoring on 6-0 senior guard Lou Merchant and 6-8 senior center Cliff Luyk.

Luyk has bucketed 58 points in his last three games. He hit 17 against FSU, a big 24 on the Demon Deacs, and 17 again in the loss to Miami.

Merchant scored 15 on the Seminoles, 19 against Miami. Tom Barbee, a 6-4 junior forward, has been their biggest helpmate of late. He scored 16 against Wake.

Taylor Stokes, a sophomore forward who stands 6-4, and 6-3 junior Carlos Morrison are the other likely starters.

PETRELS

ward their eighth consecutive victory.

He sank a push from the circle to put Carson-Newman ahead for good and came right back with a free throw to make it 54-51.

Jarman sank a layup to cut it to one, but Ellington's foul made it 55-53 with only 1:12 left. Jarman's foul toss with 55 seconds left cut the deficit to one again and then it was Jones who took charge to hit two gratis tosses and wrap it up with 18 seconds to play.

A Jarman tap-in at the buzzer narrowed the gap to one, but only added to the Wildcats' frustration.

Jarman, a 6-6 redhead from Gastonia, N.C., hit on nine of 11 field goal attempts, but the story of the game was the inability of his teammates to work the ball into him.

Carson-Newman had led by 27-26 at the half, but the fine work of Jarman enabled Davidson to bolt out front, 45-37, eight minutes deep into the second half.

It was here that the tide turned. The Eagles rolled in 10 straight points, four of them by Ellington, and took the lead at 47-45.

In the nightcap, Mississippi College operated on the theory that you are supposed to shoot and pray and not worry about defense. It turned out to be disasterous strategy. Oglethorpe broke loose for easy layups time after time.

Following Rowland in the scoring column were Bobby Nance, 19; Tommy Norwood, 17; Morris Mitchell, 15.

LEE DANIELL TO HIT PRO BOWLING CIRCUIT

Lee Daniell

Daniell, a left-handed bowler, joins Ralph Brunt on the circuit, Brunt, of course, scored a resounding second place last week in the tour's opener at Argo, Ill.

Daniell is a 195-average bowler, having scored as high as a 197 season's report.

"I look at it this way," said Daniell. "The tour will be tough, no doubt about it. But I want to know if I can handle something like this, and the only way to find out is bowl in the tournaments."

Daniell will be one of the few left-handers on the tour. Among the better-known lefties are Billy Allen of Tampa, Fla., and Roy Lown. The next stateside tour stop is Albany, N.Y., Jan. 24. Both Daniell and Brunt will make this one.—ATKINSON

Summerlin, Crawford Key Fairburn's Cage Success

Campbells Win Combined 13-2

By PAUL ATKINSON

Fairburn High School basketball coach Jack Hanson has a 7-1 won-lost record this season, but that doesn't mean he isn't worried.

"We can do better than we've been doing," he said Monday night. "Our last game, a win over Central of Carroll, was heartening, because we looked like a unit then.

"Still, I'm worried. We're starting four lettermen and using six much of the time. So the experience is there; it's just that the boys have been a little nervous or tight."

Hanson, an exponent of the control-type basketball, figures that center Skipper Petsch, lone non-lettermen in the starting lineup and tallest at 6-5½, is the key. "We need his rebounding and scoring," Hanson explained. "If he comes around, we'll be real good."

So far, Petsch is averaging about eight or nine retrieves a game.

"Amazingly," Hanson continued, "Burrow has been my best rebounder of late, and he usually doesn't start. He got 13 in less than three quarters against Central last week."

Hanson opens with a lineup of Larry Crawford, 6-0, and Kirby Lamb, 6-1, at forwards, Petsch at center, Billy Collins, 5-10, and Allen Summerlin, 6-0, at the guards.

Summerlin is the top scorer, averaging at 13 points a game. He took the Bears' first five shots against Central—and hit 'em all.

Only non-seniors are Crawford and Petsch. The second sub, guard Avery Sayer, for instance, is a letterman and senior.

ALLEN SUMMERLIN

. . . Handle Scoring

Hanson believes if the Bears cut down on their floor mistakes, they can go. "In our type of game—ball control," Hanson said, "you can't make those mistakes and survive."

The girls have been nearly as successful as the boys, posting a 6-1 report card. Their only loss also was to Henry County. Chief scorer has been forward June Neely, hitting at 26 points a game for coach Tom Kimbrough.

"A team to beat in our 2-AA region?" Hanson repeated a question. "You have to go with Headland. In our sub-region, it appears that Forest Park and Troup will be tough."

And Fairburn.

Kentucky's Fast Finish Topples Temple, 78-55

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—A taller Kentucky team knocked Temple from the unbeaten ranks Monday night, 78-55, with a convincing second half demonstration of basketball might.

Kentucky, holding an 11-point halftime margin, used a fast break to split the game wide open as the second half got underway and won going away as Temple seemingly tired.

The visitors had battled Kentucky on even terms during the first half, knotting the score four times although never going ahead.

Temple was kept in the game in the first half by the playmaking and deadly shooting of 5-foot-10 Bruce Drysdale.

But Kentucky dominated the boards with a total six inch height advantage and when Drysdale cooled in the second half, the outcome was never in doubt.

Wave Sinks Baylor

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Sophomore Mike Milholland hit three field goals within a three-minute stretch late in the second half Monday night to lead Tulane's faltering Green Wave to a 66-55 victory over Baylor.

Tulane, which led 35-31 at the half, saw its lead almost disappear as Baylor closed the gap to 52-50 with about five minutes left in the game.

But Milholland sank a jump shot and, following a time out, Tulane made 10 straight points to ice the game.

SMU Kicks Bama

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—Southern Methodist University broke up a late Alabama rally Monday night with a bevy of free throws and some wide open shooting, beating the Crimson Tide, 71-66, in a basketball game.

The Crimsons were behind 35-25 at halftime, but came back with a fast break and moved ahead 38-37 with four minutes gone in the second half.

The Mustangs, however, quickly regained the advantage and held on until Darrell Estes stole the ball and went in for a layup that tied it at 60-60 with three minutes left in the game.

TROY, Ala. (AP)—Troy State College defeated Shorter College of Rome, Ga., 105-95 and Spring Hill of Mobile routed Georgia State of Atlanta, 108-56, Monday night in the Troy Invitational Basketball Tournament.

Gordon Guin sacked 34 points for Shorter, and George Norton hit 31 for Troy.

Georgia State opened the contest with an eight-point lead via four straight field goals, but they were able to make only three more from the field in the first half. Spring Hill led, 52-18, when the half ended.

Spring Hill's Dick Hennier was high scorer with 31 points. Georgia State's top shooter was Jim Woodall, with 29. The winners meet Tuesday in the finals. The losers will play a consolation match.

Foss of the American Football League has renewed his year-old challenge to the rival National Football League for a post-season game between the two champions. He said he was dead serious about the challenge, but the NFL's Pete Rozelle hasn't changed his mind. "You don't play games with people that are suing you for $10 million dollars," he said. . . . Billy Cannon, Mr. Flop last year in the AFL, set a league record this year with a season total of 948 yards, which he clinched with a 145-yard-day Sunday. Nine other records fell, including George Blanda's erasure of the passing mark with 3,340 yards on the year. . . . Commissioner Foss said that three of the AFL's eight clubs, Buffalo, Houston and Boston, were "breaking even, or even in the black," and said that only New York and Oakland had failed to improve financially this year.

FEEL EYES ON YOU?—DON'T WORRY; IT'S NATURAL

By CHARLES ELLIOTT
Constitution Outdoor Columnist

It is really amazing how man will sometimes reach back a thousand generations, or more, to something that even he, with all of his civilized know-how, cannot begin to understand.

Charles Elliott

Did you ever look around suddenly and find someone's eyes on you? That is an instinct from the cave days, held over through the millenniums from the time man had many more natural enemies than he has today. Then he had to be on the alert with that instinctive sense, or he didn't last long enough to exercise any of his other senses.

This afternoon Miss Kayte and I went squirrel hunting. We found a grove of hickory trees and the signs around them indicated that the place was alive with foraging bushy-tails.

We sat down about a hundred yards apart, where she could watch a couple of hickory trees, and I could keep my eyes on at least that many more.

Of course something is always wrong. With three squirrels barking at us, the foliage was so thick that we were unable to spot a single one of the treetop animals.

I am sure that pleased Kayte much more than it did me. She wouldn't accept my positive statement that the squirrels in our back yard were not at all like those of this mountain clan, or that our squirrels, even though they ate most of the grain and other feed we put out for the birds, were trusting and to some extent dependent on us.

Those we heard in the mountain trees were so elusive and using such bad language, I think she had about decided to pot at one if she could see it, until all of a sudden she got a cold chill at the back of her neck.

Naturally, she lost all interest in squirrels, and spent the remainder of her time peering around through the woods to see who or what was peering at her. Whatever it was had better eyes, because she was never able to locate any creature which might have made that special shiver tingle along her spine.

There is no doubt that we are endowed with that sixth sense which is extrasensory above all the other senses we live by. I recall a story told me once by Louis Brown, who hunts around the desolate fringes of the Arctic Circle in northern Yukon Territory.

To Louis, danger was certainly not a stranger on the trail. He'd had grizzlies explode out of the brush and charge him at close range. He'd been followed by wolf packs when 60-degree-below-zero winds howled down off the tundra to penetrate the stunted Arctic forest, and it was a question of whether the wolves or winds would get him first.

Louis says that he was out alone in late July, to look over some new hunting territory for the fall. He'd caught a couple of grayling out of the river, cooked them for his supper, and was perfectly relaxed in front of his campfire. The moment of complete relaxation was suddenly shattered when the hairs quivered on the back of his neck, and a feeling like cold wind blew through his body.

A thousand generations ago he'd probably have jumped for the nearest tree limb. In the 20th Century, he reached for his rifle, which he kept within arm's length, and stood up for instant action.

The sensation passed and he ruminated on it for a while before he crawled into his sleeping bag. The mystery was solved next morning when he found the fresh tracks of two large Arctic wolves on a muddy bank along the edge of the river.

The next time you look up suddenly to find someone's eyes on you, you may take a grain of comfort from the knowledge that after a thousand or a million generations, your kinship and intimacy with the good earth has at least one spark left.

DeWitt New Red Prexy

CINCINNATI (AP)—William O. DeWitt Monday was elected president of the Cincinnati Reds of the National League. DeWitt has been general manager and vice president of the club since late last year.

The Reds Board of Directors also named Stanley Kess as chairman of the board.

The club has been without a president and board chairman since the death last March of Powell Crosley Jr., who held both jobs. Kess is the husband of Crosley's daughter.

DeWitt was named vice president and general manager of the Reds on Dec. 2, 1960, after the resignation of Gabe Paul.

Spinning Reel In Itself Okay, But People Who Use Them---

By TOM STODDARD

There's nothing really wrong with spinning reels that the people who use them couldn't fix.

Tom Stoddard

As a matter of fact, as mechanical apparati go, they're pretty efficient about their work. They foul up sometimes, but only slightly more often than a shoe tongue.

In addition, spinning reels provide a reasonably sporting way of catching fish, probably more sporting than the conventional reel.

But back to the people that use them.

If your Uncle Herbert, who actually did go fishing three times when he was a boy in Winnepac, gives your Aunt Martha a spinning reel for Christmas, automatically and at once she's good enough to forage on Lake Lanier.

This, despite the fact that she's never been closer to a live fish than Herren's, and those are lobters, anyway.

Spinning reels are just too dratted easy. They never backlash. The line won't break, or shouldn't, because you've got a pre-set drag.

Here's a story.

Two fishermen (bona fide) are quietly fishing with live bait. They haven't caught much, but aren't particularly bugged because the sun's warm enough to overcome the discomfort of the leaking boat.

Two more fishermen come along. They look like a father and son team, and dad is riding in the front, perched on an easy chair (almost).

At that point, one of the first two fishermen hooks a fish and lands him. Usually, these two fishermen avoid landing fish when anybody is watching, but there isn't enough doing this morning to worry about it.

The second two fishermen, predictably, anchor and start to fish. They ask the customary question.

"Doing any good?"

Minus any reason (or truth) whatsoever, the first two reply:

"Not now," one says. "But early this morning we really got in 'em. We only had about 50 shrimp and we caught 40 before we ran out of bait."

"That right?" asks Dad. "Any size to 'em?"

"Yep," replies original fisherman No. 2. "I guess all told they weighed about 55 pounds. But when we got back with some more shrimp, they'd quit."

"Well, I'll be," say the other two, simultaneously.

At this point, original fisherman No. 1 hooks another fish and lands it. It is of respectable size, but flushed with the success of the previous successful lies, he says:

"----! Look at this little ------.

I'm ready to leave this place. It's too boring to stay."

The original two fishermen pull in their stringer and leave, leaving fishermen Nos. 3 and 4 staring, gap-mouthed.

Now you can answer the $64,000 question yourself.

What kind of fishing tackle were dad and son using?

Opening lead: Ten of ♠.

A slight lack of economy in the management of the trump suit proved fatal to declarer today.

West opened the ten of spades which was ducked all around. The suit was continued and ruffed by declarer, who thought it discreet to draw trumps at once. He, therefore, led a low heart and played the ten from dummy, which East gathered in with the ace. A spade was returned, and declarer ruffed with the jack. Had West overruffed, declarer would have brought in the hand, for on regaining the lead he could have drawn both remaining trumps with his queen and cashed all his high cards. But West properly refused to ruff because by making a discard he retained king-nine as a tenace over declarer's queen-six and could not be prevented from winning two trump tricks.

Declarer had handled his trump assets rather wastefully. East's spade bid should have alerted him to the danger of an overruff in that suit, and he should arrange to give as much protection as possible to his heart honors.

Upon winning the second trick, South's best play was to enter dummy by overtaking the king of clubs with the ace and lead the low heart from dummy through East. East will play low, and South's jack forces the king.

West will presumably get out with a club. South plays the queen from dummy and leads another low heart, not the ten. East will win with the ace and return another spade. Having conserved the ten of hearts in dummy, declarer can now afford to ruff with the queen of hearts and the ten in dummy draws West's remaining trump.

Well, Yes, He's Drunk

(If you think you have problems now, wait till you write to George c/o The Atlanta Constitution.)

DEAR GEORGE:

My husband all of a sudden started taking a great interest in taking the dog for walks. It strikes me as pretty funny. I'm almost sure he's sneaking into saloons but I can't ever smell liquor on his breath. Is there anything that really takes liquor off the breath? The dog doesn't even want to go for walks. My husband sure acts funny.

SUSPICIOUS

DEAR SUSPICIOUS:

Now as I get the picture, your problem is that your husband repeatedly throws a leash on this lazy dog and drags him howling off down the street, possibly to a saloon, right? And then, you say, he acts funny.

I see absolutely no ground for your suspicion. In the first place, dogs under 21 are not allowed in saloons. In the second place, the worst way in the world to sneak into a saloon is dragging a noisy dog. In the third place, the so called breath-deodorants—oh, look, let's face it. He's pie-eyed.

National Exchange To Open March 7

NEW YORK (UPI)—The National Stock Exchange will open for trading March 7, 1962, to become this city's third securities exchange.

Lawrence E. Taylor, chairman of the new exchange, told a news conference that shares of eight to ten companies will be traded initially. He said, "We hope to have about 25 companies" listed by the end of the first year of operation.

The bulk of the concerns listed will be industrial companies whose shares now are traded in the over-the-counter market, Taylor said.

Benefits Go to GM Strikers

Strike benefits began going out Monday to some 2,300 auto workers here as no progress was reported for the 18th straight day toward settlement of the walkout at General Motors' Fisher Body plant.

Meanwhile, it was reported that the production tieup at GM's Fisher Body and Chevrolet assembly plants has resulted in another firm—the Complete Auto Transit Inc., of Doraville—laying off some 150 employes.

E. G. Rice Jr., a vice president of the Doraville firm which specializes in transporting new cars, said about 75 per cent of the company's drivers and about a third of its mechanics were idled.

Some 800 production employes at GM's Chevrolet plant were laid off in the chain reaction ignited by the Dec. 1 walkout by some 1,500 autoworkers at Fisher Body, which supplies the passenger-car bodies used at Chevrolet.

Leonard Hull, president of United Autoworkers Local 34, said the amount of the strike benefits going to the 2,300 autoworkers would vary according to the size of the individual member's family.

The maximum that a single member can draw, though, will be $25 per week, he said, adding that the benefits were effective as of the eighth day of the strike.

Local 34 and GM negotiators huddled for five-and-a-quarter hours Monday but reported little or no progress toward breaking the stalemate. They will resume negotiations at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Independents Win Pledge of U.S. Help

WASHINGTON (AP)—A wholesale drug firm Monday endorsed a proposal for government guarantees to help independent stores rent space in large shopping centers.

Herman Nolen, president of McKesson and Robbins, Inc., said, "The future of the independent, locally owned drugstore depends on equal access to shopping centers and other first-class business locations."

He told the Senate Small Business Committee his firm supported the group's "suggested solution to this problem, that is, a federal program of insuring lease bonds written by private surety companies.

Steel Mill Bought for $8.5 Million

Fulton Industries, Inc., disclosed Monday that it paid $8½ million for the Superior Steel division which it recently acquired from Copperweld Steel Co. of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Announcing that the Atlanta-based industrial corporation has assumed active management of Superior, Jay Levine, Fulton chairman, said the assets acquired for the previously undisclosed purchase price have "a book value of approximately $18½ million."

$20 MILLION SALES

The acquisition, he pointed out, was made by Superior Steel Corp., a majority-owned subsidiary, and included the division's inventory and other operating assets such as land, plant and equipment.

With a 613,000-square-foot plant on a 44-acre site in suburban Pittsburgh, Superior Steel division manufactures stainless strip and other steel products, and has a sales volume in excess of $20 million a year, the announcement said. Fulton's annual sales volume is approximately $50 million.

BOOSTS POSITION

Levine noted that "during the past few years Copperweld invested in excess of $8 million for plant modernization and improvements."

Sugar Futures

NEW YORK, (AP) — World sugar futures were easy. Liquidation in part reflected reports of fairly substantial resale offerings of European beet sugar in the world market at slightly less than the London world spot price.

World raws were quoted at 2.43 cents a pound, loaded in the vessel.

The domestic raw market was dull.

Demand for refined was slow. Some Eastern cane refiners announced plans to boost the price of industrial grades of sugar packed in 100-lb paper bags. The rise would amount to 20 points, effective Jan. 2. This would advance the price to 9.50 cents a pound from the present 9.30 level.

Domestic sugar futures No. 7 closed 1 to 2 lower. Sales 89 contracts.

Corn Leads Pit Setback

CHICAGO (AP)—Several corn futures contracts sold at their season lows on the Board of Trade as the market slipped into its broadest general setback of several days.

Losses in oats and rye ran to more than a cent a bushel. Other commodities were off major fractions in spots.

The report, issued after the close of trading on Friday, boosted the estimate of 1961 yield 79.5 million bushels over a month ago.

Stephens Sees Little Distress Aid

Very little federal "distressed area" money will ever come to the South under present congressional committee organization, Rep. Robert G. Stephens Jr. of Georgia's 10th District said here Monday.

Stephens, who is a member of the House Banking and Currency Committee, told Buckhead Kiwanians that he heard members of that committee ask to be assured that no federal money would be used to help move any branch of a Northern industry into Southern states.

"Seven of my counties could qualify for such money," Stephens said. "But it is doubtful indeed if any appreciable amount of that money will come into Southern states."

He said that an entirely new industry could use such money, but other federal agencies are already in the business of supplying such funds.
